

WIXSON GETS HIS DIVORCE DECREE

Is Separated From Wife On Grounds Of Cruel and Inhuman Treatment

At a large social function in the Elks' clubrooms at Rhinelander, Wis., held one evening in the latter part of 1915, an incident occurred that was not down on the program and in which Chester Wixson, financier, had an experience that led him to begin a suit for divorce. The last chapter concerning the disturbed marital relations of the couple was written in circuit court, before Judge Gregory, Friday afternoon, when the court granted Wixson a decree on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

"I was on the entertainment committee and was among those who served a light lunch to the lodge members and ladies," Wixson testified. "When I passed my wife she suddenly threw her plate on the floor and threw her cup of coffee at me. At the same time she called me a coward."

"According to Wixson's testimony, his wife called him names upon frequent occasions such as 'pup' and 'cur.'"

The court approved a stipulation entered by Chauncey Yockey, counsel for Wixson, by which, as a final property settlement, Wixson has already given Mrs. Wixson municipal bonds valued at $25,000. She is also to have custody of the three children, 12 to 18, and he is to have the privilege of visiting them once a month. Mrs. Wixson is in Hollywood, Cal., with the children, for the winter.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

ADVENT SEASON OPENED SUNDAY

Sunday marked the beginning of Advent which is observed particularly by the Catholic, Episcopal and some other churches. The season comprises the four weeks ending with Christmas and commemorates the period of expectant looking forward to the birth of Christ. The first Sunday in Advent is the beginning of the ecclesiastical year. The fiscal year has begun at various times. The Episcopal church at the recent convention in St. Louis, Mo., fixed Jan. 1 for the beginning of the business year as a uniform date for all dioceses of that church.

The season of Advent is similar to Lent in some respects although the discipline is less strict. The Catholic church solemnizes no marriages although some marriage ceremonies are performed. Social functions are also much discouraged.

MAY ATTEMPT TO REPEAL BUCK LAW

F. B. Moody of the state conservation commission, was in Rhinelander Wednesday. Mr. Moody says that many changes in the present game laws will be made at the next session of the legislature. He anticipates a hard fight over the attempts which will be made to repeal the one buck law. He says that the opinion regarding this law is divided through the state, some believing it to be a good thing both for the preservation of deer and the prevention of accidents, while others declare that it should be wiped off the statutes.

DRY LEAGUE TO BE FORMED HERE

Next Sunday afternoon at the Bucknam meeting to be held at the Congregational church at 4:30 a movement will be started to form a permanent Oneida Co. Dry League. Another meeting will be held on Monday night to perfect the organization. A representative in each township will be elected to work with the general officers and organization. Wisconsin is making steady progress towards prohibition. A dry bill will be introduced in the legislature this winter.

SAMPSON WANTS TO MEET PERKINS

Young Sampson, a wrestler of considerable reputation in the northwest, drifted into Rhinelander Tuesday looking for a match. Sampson said that he is anxious to take on Billy Perkins of this city. He is acting as his own manager and is at present negotiating for a match with the local artist.

There is every reason to believe that a match between Sampson and Perkins would be well worth seeing. Although Perkins is largely known as a boxer he has frequently indulged in the mat game and those who have witnessed his work say that he is no slouch. He has met some clever men and has several victories to his credit.

Young Sampson is reputed to be one of the best wrestlers in the northwest. Sporting writers predict great things for him. He gave a series of exhibitions during the Oneida county fair last September and won many admirers here.

Should the Sampson-Perkins match be arranged it will probably be staged in the Armory.

NEW BUILDING COMPANY TO ERECT FIFTEEN HOMES

A corporation known as the Home Building Association was formed this week, by C. P. Crosby, Helen G. Crosby and Joseph Wiesman of this city, and a piece of land purchased from the Rhinelander Advancement association, on River street, on the West Side. The money has been paid in, the lots are to be surveyed and staked out this week, cellars will be dug at once and fifteen houses started and pushed to completion in sixty days. These houses will be sold, not rented, to employees of the various factories and other industries of the city. Payments will be made as reasonable as possible, the buyer to pay down several hundred dollars and then pay the balance in instalments or take out a loan in the Building Association.

It is predicted that all these houses will be spoken for long before they are finished, and it is said on good authority that two hundred more families could find work in Rhinelander if they had housing.

Mayor Clark is plating out ten lots just north of his home on Minola street and these will be placed on the market soon.

STAPLETON GETS FIRST RECRUIT

Rhinelander Postmaster Secures Lloyd Shepard For U. S. Navy

Postmaster Stapleton of this city has the honor to be the first Wisconsin postmaster to take advantage of new National Defense Act. Under this Act a postmaster who secures recruits for the U. S. Navy is paid five dollars as soon as his applicant has successfully passed the required examination. Mr. Lloyd Shepard was interviewed by Postmaster Stapleton who sent him to the Sub-recruiting Station at Wausau, for examination. He succeeded in passing the exam and was sent to Milwaukee to complete the necessary formalities. Shepard passed his examination at Milwaukee today and will be sent to the Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Ill., for his training prior to being sent to sea. On the completion of his course of instruction at Great Lakes, Shepard will go to one of Uncle Sam's new battleships. He is fortunate in enlisting at this time as he will be at sea in time to take part in the spring cruise. On this cruise for 1917 the fleet will visit the Panama Canal and an opportunity will be given to all men to make a sight seeing tour of this wonderful engineering feat. Men enlisted before January first will have a good chance of finishing their training in time to make this cruise which takes place in March.

Shepard's chances of making a career for himself at this time are excellent.

The five dollars which Mr. Stapleton receives from the government for recruits will be given by him to each applicant who successfully passes the examination.

BLAZE DAMAGES PERRAULT HOME

Damage to the amount of several hundred dollars resulted from a fire in the residence of Henry Perrault, 616 Arbutus street early Monday evening. The fire, which started in the air chute, was discovered at 7 o'clock. A pan of live coals is said to have been responsible for the blaze. No one was at home at the time.

Efficient work on the part of the firemen prevented the house from being totally destroyed. Most of the damage was confined to the basement and first floor. Considerable furniture was ruined by smoke.

Do Your Christmas Shopping at Home

Rhinelander Dealers Can Sell You Anything From a Penny Post Card To An Automobile

MILK WILL SOON BE EIGHT CENTS

On and after December 11 milk will sell in Rhinelander at eight cents per quart delivered. This is the announcement of F. W. Meen, of the Rhinelander Creamery & Produce company, this city's leading milk dealer.

Mr. Meen says the raise in price is due wholly to the high cost of feed. Farmers find it impossible to provide the creamery company with milk at the old price schedule.

Rhinelander is one of the last cities in Wisconsin to experience a raise in milk prices. In some cities milk is now retailing at nine cents per quart.

181 WILL RECEIVE CHRISTMAS CHECKS

Merchants State Bank Will Distribute Over $5,000 On December 15th

The Merchants State Bank announces that on December 15, they will issue their Christmas Club checks to the members of the 1916 club.

One hundred and eighty-one people took advantage of this splendid way to save money for their Christmas expenditures and taxes, and deposited a total of $5186.59 in this club with the Merchants State Bank.

3% interest is added to each member's deposit who completed the fifty payments on scheduled time.

The formal opening of the 1917 Savings Club will be December 18, but those who wish can make their first deposit now.

The New North recommends this Savings Club as one of the best savings plan ever inaugurated in Rhinelander.

HURT ON SAW

Henry Cooper, aged 23 and married, was badly injured in the planing mill of the C. C. Collins Lumber company, early Tuesday afternoon. Cooper was operating a rip saw when his left arm came in contact with the saw, lacerating the member just below the elbow. It is said that amputation of the arm will not be necessary.

Cooper is the son of William Cooper, foreman in the Collins planing mill. The family moved to this city a short time ago from Beloit.

CITY COUNCIL IN MONTHLY SESSION

Much Important Business Is Transacted At Regular December Meeting

In order to accommodate several aldermen, the regular December meeting of the city council was held on Wednesday evening of this week instead of on Tuesday as usual.

A petition signed by several firemen asking that first year men in the fire department be paid $60 per month and second year men be paid $65, was presented. This is an increase of $5 per month over what these men now receive. A motion was passed granting petition with the provision that the matter would be taken care of at the regular time for fixing salaries. The Statutes provide that salaries of city officials shall be fixed in February.

The Wisconsin Veneer company requested and was granted permission to connect with the eight inch water main now laid through the company's grounds. This entails no expense to the city.

A communication from E. A. Forbes was read stating his desire to purchase one or more of the lots on the north side of Frederick street belonging to the city. A motion by F. Pecor and seconded by Lynn Vaughan providing that the lots be sold to Forbes for $650 was lost. Later a committee consisting of Aldermen Goldstrand, Skubal and Noble, was appointed to investigate the matter and report to the council. There was considerable discussion of this matter as a number of the aldermen seemed taken by surprise and stated their unwillingness to decide on such short notice whether the lots should be sold or not at the price. The lots referred to are four in number and are just opposite the new high school. At about the time the high school grounds were purchased these lots were secured to be used as an athletic field. Several of the aldermen feel it would be well to hold them until it is determined in what manner the high school grounds shall be improved.

Every city officer is now required to file with the city clerk on the first day of January each year, an inventory of all city property in his department according to a resolution introduced by Frank Pecor that was carried.

Action was taken confirming the action of the committee authorized to arrange for the purchase of the Normal school site and authorizing the payment of one half the purchase price of the property. The amount the city pays is $7340.94. The committee in charge consisted of Mayor Clark, City Attorney Morse and Thos. Wight. Formal transfer of this property will be made before the end of the week.

JONES sometimes wakes up feeling cross and in consequence the family know it without his telling them in so many words.

Mrs. Jones attributes it to biliousness and if it doesn't wear off during the day she gives him a dose of liver medicine at night. The next morning he feels better and she gives him coffee for breakfast,—and the next morning,—and the next morning. And in a few days Jones has another spell.

Dear Mrs. Jones means all right, but she doesn't seem to realize that if she didn't give Jones his morning coffee she wouldn't have to give him the liver medicine and Jones would feel all right without both.

Housewives everywhere have found out that Instant Postum takes the place of breakfast coffee perfectly. And that is only one of the reasons why Instant Postum has wholly supplanted the use of coffee on thousands upon thousands of American breakfast tables.

Beer Most Animalizing

The following utterance concerning the effects of beer upon the physical and moral nature has been made by the New York officers of the Home Life Insurance Company: "Of all the intoxicating drinks of the most animalizing, it dulls the intellectual and moral and feeds the sensual and beastly nature. Beyond all other drinks it qualifies for deliberate and unprovoked crime. In this respect it is much worse than distilled liquors. A whiskey drinker will commit murder only under the direct excitement of liquor, a beer drinker is capable of doing it in cold blood. Long observations have assured us that a large proportion of murders deliberately planned and executed without passion or malice, with no other motive than the acquisition of property or money, often of trifling value, are perpetuated by beer drinkers."

"I Hate It"

From a speech by the Hon. J. Frank Hanly in the Republican State Convention of Indiana in 1908.

Mr. Hanly was the nominee for President of the Prohibition party at the last election.

Personally, I have seen so much of the evils of the traffic in the last four years, so much of its economic waste, so much of its physical ruin, so much of its mental blight, so much of its tears and heartache, that I have come to regard the business as one that must be held and controlled by strong and effective laws. I bear no malice toward those engaged in the business, but I hate the traffic.

I hate its every phase: I hate it for its intolerance, I hate it for its arrogance, I hate it for its hypocrisy, I hate it for its cant and craft and false pretenses. I hate it for its commercialism, I hate it for its greed and avarice, I hate it for its sordid love of gain at any price. I hate it for its domination in politics. I hate it for its corrupting influence in civic affairs. I hate it for its incessant effort to debauch the suffrage of the country; for the cowardly makes of public men. I hate it for its utter disregard of law. I hate it for its ruthless trampling of the solemn compacts of state constitututions. I hate it for the load it straps to labor's back; for the palatial needs it gives to toil; for its wounds to genius; for the tragedies of its might-have-beens. I hate it for the human wrecks it has caused. I hate it for the almshouses it peoples; for the prisons it fills; for the insanity it begets; for its countless graves in potter's fields. I hate it for the mental ruin it imposes upon its victims; for its spiritual blight; for its moral degradation. I hate it for the crimes it has committed. I hate it for the homes it has destroyed. I hate it for the hearts it has broken. I hate it for the malice it has planted in the hearts of men.

I hate it for the grief it causes womanhood—the scalding tears, the hopes deferred, the tangled aspirations, its burden of want and care.

I hate it for its heartless cruelty to the aged, the infirm and the helpless, for the shadow it throws upon the lives of children, for its monstrous injustice to blameless ones.

I hate it as Abraham Lincoln hated slavery. And, as he sometimes saw in prophetic vision the end of slavery and the coming of the same when the sun should shine and the rain should fall upon no slave in all the Republic, so I sometimes see the end of this unholy traffic.

TRAIN KILLS WOODSMAN

A Finn lumberjack named Tapani Jussula, was killed by the south-bound Northwestern passenger train several miles north of Mercer Friday evening. How the accident occurred is not known but it is presumed the man was under the influence of liquor and fell asleep on the tracks. His body was dragged by the train a distance of nearly a mile and both legs were severed from the body. He was about 45 years of age and had been employed at one of the camps near Mercer. Coroner Charbonneau went to Mercer Saturday and took charge of the remains and interment was made in the Hurley cemetery. The man had no known relatives in these parts. —Hurley Miner.

FATHERS AND SONS

Address delivered by Rev. Wedge at Father's meeting held at the home of Mrs. C. P. Crosby:

A lot of father—talk about mother-influence over boys is lazy, shirking, sneaking guff. It sounds harsh to speak so, for, of course, the real truth about mothers' influence over their son is something that deserves to be told in the most enthusiastic language any one can command. Mothers have deserved every high tribute that has been given them. But enthusiastic language and high tributes about the marvelous things a mother can do for a boy is mere buncombe when used by some shiftless father for a blind behind which he dodges responsibility.

Adam shoving off blame on Eve cut no meaner figure than the modern father who pretends to believe that he ought to leave his boy wholly to his wife's training. "Because women have an instinct for that kind of thing." It is in fact, a hypocritically polite form of wife-desertion, and if human law can't punish it for that, God's law can and will. The shyster who commits this fraud is the father himself.

The truth is that, however much a good mother is able to do for a son, there are some vital things owing to a young fellow in preparation for manhood which only his father can furnish, and any father an inexcusable traitor who won't give himself directly and personally to meeting such needs in his boy's life.

Are You A Molluscoid? Rain fell all day Sunday. It was certainly dreary and so dark that it was impossible to read with any comfort except by artificial light. No engagements had been made in advance for the day so we hovered around the grate-fire and were thankful that we weren't compelled to get out.

But along about mid-afternoon, "the day of rest" began to grow wearisome. We chafed under restraint. We panted for more fresh air than came through the occasionally opened doors and windows. By five o'clock confinement "got on our nerves". Obviously our legs needed stretching.

So we dragged out some old clothes, got into them, and went out to face the weather. The first feeling of chill and dread evaporated before we'd walked a block. Our spirits rose sharply with our release. We began to feel somewhat superior to the "molluscoids" who were hugging the warm spots indoors. When we came back we were wet but greatly exhilarated. A brisk rub with a coarse towel and a change to dry clothes removed the last of the gloom.

What a commonplace experience that is to tell about here. And yet it is upon just such common occurrences, more than it is upon magic, that good physical and mental health depends. That commonplace experience recalled the thought on how completely most of us are possessed by the things we supposedly own.

Our clothes enslave us when they ought to contribute to our comfort. It isn't we that shrink from rain, so much as it is our clothes. Our linen collars and velvet hats which we work so hard to purchase and to keep up as badges of our emancipation from the state of being "poor folks" are even more the mark of another form of enslavement.

Biting want and bread hunger are responsible for disease and death, but I believe more people die from eating things they don't need than do from going without food. And more die from roddling themselves for the sake of saving their clothes than do from exposure from an insufficient amount of covering.

Think it over, and if you find your self being enslaved by the things you own and the luxuries that soften you and break down your physical manhood and womanhood, break the chains before they become too tightly welded to be broken.

The many friends of William Trotter Jr., are sorry to hear of his illness at his home in the town of Pelican, and wish for his speedy recovery.

His Method. "In writing a play," we asked the successful dramatist, "do you develop the plot first or do you simply start with the first act and let the plot develop itself?" "The very first thing I do," he replied, "is to submit my contract with the manager to the best lawyer I can find."

According to rumors afloat in the circus world Gollmar Brothers will take out the Forepaugh-Sells show which was retired from the road, and which Mr. Al Ringling had planned to start again before his health gave out. This, it is said, was the reason that the Gollmars sold their trappings and rolling stock of their show.—Sauk County Democrat.

LOGGING SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Statistical reports reaching the offices of the Northern Hemlock & Hardwood Association from eighty saw mills throughout Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, show that during the past year, twenty percent more hemlock logs were brought in from the woods, and a little over ten percent more hardwood logs were produced than in 1915. The figures for pine show a decrease of ten percent over the preceding year, the cut of white pine showing similar decreases each season. It is the intention of the mills to continue as actively during the coming season, provided they can secure the necessary woods help, and the cost of camp supplies does not become abnormal. Government census reports show that the wood industries of Wisconsin and Michigan are employing about twenty percent of the labor engaged in industries in the two states.

OF CONDOLENCE

Whereas death, the alert mysterious and incomprehensible agent of nature, has removed from the scene of his earthly activities, Bishop David Kirk, a foremost citizen of Rhinelander whose well trained mind was quick to comprehend and correctly judge the merits of important questions, whose broad range of moral vision overlooked all denominations, sects and creeds and beheld only a common Brotherhood whose bounteous benefactions, so widely and so wisely distributed through well organized societies, are a guarantee of prompt relief for the afflicted and lasting comfort to many poor and needy, whose love of country and veneration for the flag endorsed him to all loyal citizens and held him close to the men who during that doubtful dismal period of the civil war risked everything for the preservation of the union.

Resolved that the John A. Kellogg Post of Antigo, fully appreciating the high regard in which our departed comrade always held the Grand Army of the Republic and mindful of the kindly interest he manifested in the welfare of the Post regards his death as an irreparable loss to our order, a shock that has tested the heart-strings of those who during their declining years now fast changing into days have learned the true meaning of friendship and who sincerely mourn as do those upon whom has fallen a great affliction.

Therefore be it further resolved that these resolutions be published in the Rhinelander papers and that a copy be placed on the records of this Post, also a copy be sent to the family of the deceased and that our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days.

NEWS NOTES FROM NEARBY CITIES

Ashland—
Tucked away in a specially improvised bed on a scow used in connection with the construction of the new third Northwestern are dock, a doe not more than a year old, was taken from its snug and comfortable surroundings by game wardens. Captain John McCallery of the tug Marion towing the scow noticed the doe swimming in the bay. The captain believed the doe to be a dog at first, but as the speed of the tug was retarded, and a clearer view of the strange object could be had this belief was dispelled. When the tug's speed was slackened the doe, instead of swimming away from the scow in tow came directly towards it and by its actions the crew realized that it wanted to be taken on board. The doe was picked up by the ears and taken on the scow. The knees of the doe bore evidence of contact with thin ice. After being taken on the scow, it was fed and placed at one end of the barge. It was said that when the game wardens arrived at the scow, the doe was tucked away in a bed beneath several blankets and was peacefully sleeping. So tame had the animal become that a small child, which was on board, petted and fondled it like a kitten.

Ironwood—
The old Norrie mine, which was abandoned many years ago, is still believed to contain enough ore to warrant its operation and a company composed of Ironwood Duluth capitalists has been organized to work the property. The Norrie property has an interesting history, and is, together with the Colby at Bessemer characterized as the Daddy of the Gogebic range iron mines. Here was the first ore in the city of Ironwood discovered, and for many years it was the chief mine of the city and the range. Its ores were of such a uniform quality that it was used as a basis in grading all the other ores of the range and in fixing ore prices for all the ores of the Lake Superior country. It has produced about six and one half million tons, under the supervision of the Metropolitan Iron & Land company, which opened the property and operated it for many years, and its successor, the Oliver Iron Mining company.

All of these officials are from New Jersey with the exception of Frank Zaug, the New London man, who has been manager for several years past.

Florence—
C. C. Olin deputy oil inspector was in Homestead on Wednesday investigating the death of Mrs. John Lidbeck, who died from burns received on November 23, while lighting the kitchen fire with what was supposed to be gasoline. Mr. Olin states that it was not gasoline that was used but kerosene. Mr. Lidbeck got up that morning and made the fire, using considerable kerosene and went to the barn to do his milking. Mrs. Lidbeck came down to the kitchen and finding that the fire was not burning very well, opened the stove and threw in more kerosene. An explosion immediately followed and she was enveloped in flames. It is supposed that the stove was full of gas from the oil that the unfortunate woman's husband had poured in.

Barron—
Two sets of twin calves, weighing in all 140 pounds, were born to a cow on the farm of B. N. Nelson recently. One pair was born in the morning, the other in the afternoon. All died. Birth of twin calves usually is considered a phenomenon.

Antigo—
Early next week, according to present indications, the huge new saw mill of the Langlade Lumber Company erected in the north end of the city will begin its first cut. A large quantity of logs, estimated at 538,000 feet, is now in the roll ways and hot pond. All the workmen needed for the present have been engaged and the boilers, engine, and machinery have been given a successful test. The new mill, which embodies the most advanced ideas in saw mill construction, has an estimated daily capacity of 150,000 feet in two shifts of ten hours each. To begin with the mill will operate with a day shift only, but will probably put on a night shift after the first year. From seventy to seventy-five men will be employed in the mill and dry yards. The planing mill and dry yards will give employment to about twenty-five more men but the former will not be completed for three or four months. The steel frame is up and engine foundation cast.

Rhinelanders and Antigo should forget old differences and work together in an effort to secure the next state potato show for Antigo in 1917.

Senator LaFollette will enlist his services in the battle against the high cost of living in the next congress.

"I most certainly am going to work for some legislation to put a damper on the ever soaring high cost of living," said the senator. "I am going to work seriously and long on this problem. I can not give out any advance statement as to what my course will be, because at present I do not know. When I do know I will do all I can. I believe in having rain with thunder."

ELKS HONOR DEAD

Rhinelanders Elks, in common with all lodges of the order throughout the nation, held their annual memorial services, or lodge of sorrow, in honor of departed brothers Sunday afternoon. The usual memorial address was omitted this year, being supplemented by the reading of the ritual.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the male quartette and a string quartette; several high class selections were given.

COUNTY TEACHERS IN SESSION HERE

The annual teachers' institute of Oneida county is now in session at the training school building, a full attendance of teachers being present. The conductors are Rural School Inspector, A. A. Thompson, County Supt. F. A. Lowell, Prof. W. H. Cheever, Oshkosh Normal, City Superintendent W. P. Colburn, Principal W. N. Mackin, Miss Maude Calvert and Miss Minnie Schofield of the training school, Agricultural Representative W. D. Juday and Supervising teacher, Miss Amanda Rice.

Thursday, school board members of the county districts met at the training school in annual convention. A very profitable meeting was held.

CITY COUNCIL IN MONTHLY SESSION

It was decided that the city will do the work of driving the test wells for the water works department and a drilling machine will be rented from the state. The work will be in charge of the committee that made the waterworks investigation and will be superintended by City Engineer Olson.

The unsatisfactory conditions existing at the isolation hospital will now it seems be greatly improved. The building is being repaired and cleaned up and it is contemplated that the care of the building and patients will be turned over to the Sisters at St. Mary's hospital. Heretofore this matter has been a constant source of annoyance to the city officials and others as the building was unsanitary and it was next to impossible to procure nurses for patients.

A letter from an eastern concern to Richard Guilday, street commissioner, regarding prices of snow blows, was read. Mr. Guilday has been corresponding with different companies with the intention of asking the council to purchase an additional plow. The street commissioner evidently considered it advisable to take up the time of the council with this matter rather than state his request to the Board of Public Works as is customary. The matter was referred to the committee on city affairs.

The council adjourned early to meet on the 19 when the revision of ordinances will be taken up.

POINTS ON KITCHEN ECONOMY

Little Suggestions That Will Be Found of Value in Every Home.

Wash a potato, wipe dry and put it in your breadpan. It will keep the bread fresh for days.

If eggs you are about to boil are cracked, add a little vinegar to the water, and they can be boiled as satisfactorily as undamaged ones.

Take great care of the milk; unless you have a very cool place to keep it, boil it as soon as it arrives. Keep it covered with a clean muslin cloth.

Tomatoes should always be skinned before being used for salad. To do this easily, place the fruit in a basin and pour boiling water over it. Let stand a minute, and then drain. You will find that the skin can then be removed without the slightest trouble.

Remember beef loses only three ounces to the pound in baking, four ounces in boiling, and five ounces in roasting. Thus roasted meat should be avoided when butchers' prices are high.

If the boiler immediately after use, and while still warm, is rubbed all over with any good household soap it will prevent rust, and will help to make the suds when the boiler is filled for the next washing day.

To clean a black dress take a dozen dry leaves and steep them in boiling water. Leave till cold, then rub well over the stained parts. This liquid will remove all stains and make the cloth look almost as fresh as when new.

Don't throw bones that have been boiled for soup into the dustbin. Put them at the back of the fire, bank up with well-dumped small coal and they will burn for hours.

Mixing machines are not easy to take to pieces for the purpose of cleaning, as there is much difficulty in properly replacing the parts. The best plan, and one which leaves the machine quite dry, is to take a piece of very stale bread, or, if this is not obtainable, a piece of toast, and grind it through. This will be found to collect all the grease, fat and skin which adheres to the knives. Repeat until the crumbs come out quite clean and dry, and then carefully wipe the machine with a clean, dry cloth.

KITCHEN MAY BE ATTRACTIVE

Simple Decorative Schemes Add to the Comfort of the Cook, Whether Housewife or Servant.

So many people are in the habit of regarding the kitchen as a necessary evil that the idea of applying any decorative treatment to it and making it a really attractive place never seems to occur to them. The cook, whether she be the housewife or a domestic, has to spend most of her time there, and if for no other purpose than to make her comfortable and happy—incidentally thereby a better servant—the place should be made as agreeable to the eye as possible. The designers of really well-planned houses now take account of this consideration and adopt simple but well-recognized decorative schemes. We have something yet to learn in this respect from old Dutch and German kitchens and also from the kitchen of old New England farmhouses.—Dallas News.

Rice and Sausages.

Chop an onion, and fry it with a tablespoonful of dripping until it is of a nice golden color. Wash a teaspoonful of whole rice, put it on with cold water, and after bringing it to the boil, drain and stir it in among the onion. Add two breakfastcupfuls of stock (or water with gravy) and two sliced tomatoes, and allow to simmer until the rice is tender and absorbs the liquid. When ready stir in two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, with sufficient salt and pepper to season. Pile in the center of a hot dish. Have some small sausages nicely browned. Place the sausages neatly around. This dish is quite complete without potatoes.

Beaten: "Jimson is beginning to show his age a great deal, don't you think?" "Yes, but it isn't at all surprising. All he has done for the last ten years is to try to kill time, and it looks as if Time had rather the better of the argument."

His Wickedness Revealed. Meeker—"Didn't I always give you my salary check the first of every month?" Mrs. Meeker—"Yes; but you never told me that you got paid on the first and fifteenth, you crabber!"—Judge.

Naturally, He Limp. "What is a 'lame duck,' anyhow?" asked the man from back home. "A lame duck," responded Congressman Hammatt, "is a statesman who has been urged by his constituents to take his feet out of the trough."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

ABOUT THE KITCHEN

SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS FOR EVERY CAREFUL HOUSEWIFE.

How to Remedy Several Possible Defects and Lighten the Work of the Home—Proper Lighting a Big Help.

Many of us read newspaper articles and books, listen to lectures and give advice on household management. But we forget to look at our own kitchens. Here are some pointed and pertinent questions for you to ask yourself:

Is your kitchen properly lighted? Is a shadow cast on the sink by the person who washes dishes? Very often the only light in a small kitchen is in the center and, as the sink is always at the side of the room, it is awkwardly placed for the one who washes dishes after lights are on. An old-fashioned oil lamp placed on a wall bracket to the left of the sink and a foot or so above the head remedies this defect. Another remedy consists in screwing a double fixture in the electric light socket in the center of the room and from one socket of this running a drop light to a hook above the sink.

Probably you cook by gas. If you do, is the stove in perfect working condition? Is the force of the gas what it ought to be? Do all the steps turn easily and are they tight? Is there any odor of escaping gas about the stove? It costs only a few cents to keep a gas stove in ship-shape, and if there is any defect in yours you should send immediately for a repair man. If you cook by coal: Are the draughts clear and what they ought to be? It not only saves fuel, but saves your own strength to have all these things attended to.

Is your refrigerator in a convenient place? Ideally it should be in a recess accessible to both the kitchen and the porch, so that the ice man can fill it without going through the kitchen. It should not be near the stove. Yet the amount of ice saved by having the refrigerator in the cellar is usually counteracted by the consequent fatigue of the cook or housewife. So have your refrigerator placed as conveniently for everybody as possible. See that the drain is clean and that it does not leak. If there are any very large cracks in the refrigerator lining, they should be repaired.

Are the cooking implements convenient to the places where they are used? Are the kettles and frying pans within arm's reach of the stove? Are soup ladles, basting spoons and meat forks within the same easy distance? Are dishpan and draining pan, with dish mop, clothes, soap and scouring implements, all neatly placed about the sink?

Have you a comfortable place to mix cakes, puddings and other dishes? There is no reason why you should not be seated for a good deal of the cooking. A high stool is comfortable and easy to move about. If possible, a shelf or table beneath a window is a good work table for the cook or housewife.

A Christmas Tree In Turkey

IN the far east rules and restrictions may be made to yield to influence with a latent force behind it, as instanced by this serio-comic incident found in Captain A. B. Townshend's book, "A Military Consul in Turkey."

A certain highly influential foreigner at Adrianople some years ago wanted a Christmas tree and ordered one from Sofia to come by train, but when the tree, an unpretentious fir about ten feet high, arrived at Adrianople station some one discovered that it was illegal to receive "plants" from abroad.

"Yasak" (it is forbidden), said the custom house.

"Yasak," echoed the sentry on duty. The foreigner said whatever was the equivalent to "rubbish" and demanded the tree.

Here was a nice quandary for the authorities. Evidently it was a most fearful thing to receive a tree from abroad, and yet the consignment was capable of getting some one into very serious trouble if he did not get his tree, and he said he must have it with in forty-eight hours.

Some one at the custom house soared above the difficulty. The tree was sent on to Stambul on the Orient express, an eight hours' journey. It came back to Adrianople by the next train, and the person for whom it was intended received a notice that "a tree from Constantinople" had arrived for him and would at once be handed over to his messenger.

So the poor little Bulgarian tree had become a Turkish one, brought from Constantinople, and by that means it satisfied officialdom and served its purpose in the end.

DICKENS AND CHRISTMAS.

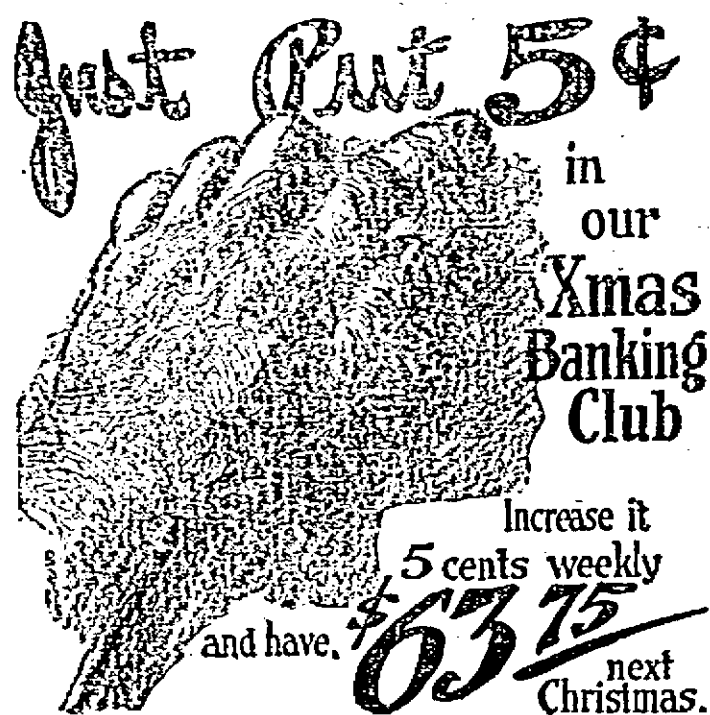

To English Author We Owe the Familiar Type of Yuletide Story.

To the genius of Charles Dickens was due the familiar type of Christmas story. The pioneer of all Christmas numbers was "A Christmas Carol." Thackeray called that tale of Old Scrooge and Tiny Tim a "national benefit." More than that, "A Christmas Carol" was an international benefit, carrying its burden of happiness across the Atlantic and disseminating its cheerfulness in every community in the United States. Millions of readers have smiled through their tears in the seventy-three years that the world has been the richer and better for having "A Christmas Carol."

Dickens wrote the story at the end of 1843 to relieve himself of the financial embarrassments produced by his rather lavish housekeeping. He was disappointed in the pecuniary returns. He received less than $1,000 from the sale in its original edition. This is attributed to the very expensive form in which it was published. Four other Christmas books which followed, beginning with "The Chimes," were much more profitable. Then in later years the Christmas numbers of Household Words, to which the "Christmas Stories" were contributed, sometimes reached a sale of 200,000 copies.

In the end Dickens had little reason to complain of the rewards of his efforts in opening up the rich vein of Christmas fiction. He was acknowledged the supreme master in that field. Thackeray published Christmas books, but wisely refrained from attempting anything similar to "A Christmas Carol" or "The Chimes." In their own way, however, "Rebecca and Rowena," an unapproached masterpiece of literary burlesque, and "The Rose and the Ring," a delightful story for children, which retains its charm for their elders, are no less matchless than the two principal Christmas books by Dickens.

Christmas Plum Pudding

WE are all inclined to think that plum pudding is the oldest and most historic Christmas dish, but as a matter of fact the first time it made its appearance in its present form was in 1675. Before that the Yuletide festival was celebrated with plum porridge, a dish that must have required the digestion of an ostrich. First leaf of nutmeg was boiled in a thick broth, to which brown bread was added. When half cooked, raisins, currants, prunes, cloves, nutmeg, mace, ginger and any other conditions that were to hand were put in and the whole was boiled and boiled to a pulp.
The present day plum pudding had its origin in England, but in the reign of Louis XVIII, a French version, known as "plumbuting," made its appearance. It was very like its English cousin, but was lightened by the addition of breadcrumbs, more eggs and a rice flour, which were used instead of the enormous quantity of suet that was required by the earlier recipes.

"FAREWELL TO THEE"

By EARL REED SILVERS.

"I don't think that I can ever care for you in just that way, Dick." The girl spoke softly, and there was a certain wistfulness in her eyes. "You see,
I'm different from most girls. Dad and I have lived together for so long that I should know what to do if I didn't have him to look out for."

"But you can still have him," Dick Garrett persisted. "He can live with us and you can look out for him all you want to."

"No, Dick," Dorothy Hayden shook her head. "I think that I've given him so much love and care that I haven't any left for other people."

Music sounded from the ballroom of the Country club. The man rose.

"The orchestra is playing 'Aloha
Oe,'" he said. "Do you mind dancing with me?"

"I should love to."

Together they made their way into the big ballroom. Dreamlike, the music floated across the floor. Dick and Dorothy danced silently, the girl's eyes half closed, her left hand resting, with a hint of a caress, on her partner's arm. The weirdly sad music seemed like a living thing, so subtly did it fit in with the mood of the two dancers.
But finally the strains died away, and Dick, stepping back, looked searchingly into the girl's eyes. In their depths he discovered a light which set his heart to beating wildly. Without a word, he led her to the shadowed terrace.

"Are you still sure?" he asked softly.

For a moment Dorothy hesitated.
The charm of the music had not yet been lost, the swaying rhythm of the dance half intoxicated her. Her glance wandered to the clubhouse porch, lighted by the mellow glow of many lanterns. As she looked, a gray-haired man framed himself in the doorway, his thin face silhouetted against the brilliant background. The light died from her eyes.

"I'm sure, Dick," she answered. "As long as he lives, my father will always be first."

"I'm not going to ask you again," he said slowly, "because I believe that you know your own mind. But I love you, have loved you ever since I met you five years ago. I had hoped—" His voice broke, and he shook his head half angrily at the display of emotion.
"But I'm not going to say anything about that. Tomorrow I'm going to accept that position in Panama. A boat sails in the afternoon, and I'll be on it."

He paused, and the girl caught her breath sharply. "'Aloha Oe' means
'farewell to thee,' in English," he continued. "That dance was probably the last one we'll ever have together. But I'll always remember it, and whenever I hear the music again I'll think of this one night with you." He held out his hand. "So I guess it's good-by."

For a long time after he had gone,
Dorothy stared with unseeing eyes into the darkness surrounding the Country club.

She reviewed her friendship with Dick Garrett. It seemed only yesterday that he had moved to Westwood,
a blond-haired, blue-eyed college boy.
She remembered his little acts of kindness to her father, his consideration, his unflinching loyalty. Suddenly she realized that he meant more to her than anyone else in the world.

A shadow fell across the porch and a figure stood before her. She looked up half hopefully. It was her father.
"Where's Dick?" he asked.

"He's gone." Her voice was dull.
"He—he leaves for Panama tomorrow!"

For a long two minutes the old man was silent.

"Why?" he questioned finally.
"Because I wouldn't marry him."

She tried to speak bravely, but a sob caught in her throat.

"Don't you love him?"
"I thought I didn't, but I do. Oh, daddy, daddy!" Suddenly she buried her face on his shoulder and sobbed quietly. He waited until the sobbing had spent itself, and then he spoke softly:

"Would you like to go home?"
"Yes, any place where I can be by myself."

Her father smiled, a light of reminiscence in his eyes.

"You'll have to wait for ten minutes, or so," he said. "I must see a man on business. But I'll be back just as soon as possible."

"I'll wait here for you."

The music began again. But Dorothy did not hear; she was thinking of other things. She realized vaguely that an automobile had drawn up before the club entrance. A man loomed out of the darkness and stood before her.

"Dorothy!" he said.

Her heart leaped wildly. She sprang to her feet.

"Dick!"

A strange mixture of wonder, unbelief and happiness was in her voice.
The man smiled into her eyes.

"Your father phoned to me," he explained. "He said that you wanted me."

"Oh!" She seemed unable to find voice for the varied emotions which surged within her.

"Do you?" he persisted gently.
She placed one hand on his arm,
timidly.

"Yes," she answered softly. "More than all the world."

Land clearing is not the time consuming, money consuming, back breaking, heart breaking, never ending job it once was, if you get a Kirstin to do the work.

The Kirstin Method guarantees a saving of 10% to 50% over without strain to man, horse or machine. It has been a leader for 21 years.

One man without horses can pull the biggest stumps, too, with the Kirstin One Man Stump Puller. A little push on the handle gives tons of pull on the stump. This enormous power is developed by use of double leverage. It gives an ordinary 12-year-old farm boy a giant's power.

POSTOFFICE CREW AWAIT BIG RUSH

Employees Urge Patrons To Observe Rules For Mailing Packages

The Rhinelander postoffice—and this applies to all the postoffices in the country—is preparing for the Christmas rush of packages and the employees would greatly appreciate it if the public would prepare as well by observing a few simple rules for mailing.

Packages should be wrapped securely, with strong string and strong paper. Many people bring in packages that are wrapped with tissue paper and tied with baby ribbon. Such packages suffer in transit and often are lost to the addressee.

Each package should bear the name of the sender and should bear sufficient postage. From these requirements grow this rule:

Never mail a parcel post package without submitting it to the stamp clerk to ascertain if there is correct postage.

Parcel post packages are not first class matter and cannot be sent out of the office unless they carry full postage. In that event, if the package does not bear the name of the sender, it goes to the dead letter office and is lost.

Packages should be put into the postoffice or mail boxes early. Then it is possible to put them in pouches that will carry them as far toward their destination as possible without rehandling.

If the goods in the package are "perishable" or "fragile" they should be so marked. The stamp clerk has to ask the question if they are not so marked, meaning an extra expenditure of time in the rush season.

The postoffice has for distribution a number of parcel post circulars, giving all necessary information. Any one applying at the postoffice may secure one.

Spread Happiness.

When you rise in the morning, form a resolution to make the day a happy one to a fellow creature.—Sidney Smith.

Word of Appreciation.

"I suppose you think a republic is ungrateful." "No," replied Senator Borah; "this republic has always treated me all right. And there have been times, when I got to thinking about what it has to put up with, that a republic seems downright patient and forbearing."

Santa Claus' Assistants

Many different Santa Clauses are caught each year coming right straight down the chimney, and the Santa Clauses who haven't been caught number into the hundreds. Of course they're not the really, truly Santa Claus, who is never caught, but only his assistants.

Time was when Santa Claus, who lives up there in Greenland, could pack his sleigh with toys and the like, start off flying at just about this time and get all the way round the world without the least bit of trouble before the first sleepy youngster opened his eyes on Christmas morning. But things have changed.

There are so many more people for the old gentleman to visit nowadays than there used to be that he just can't get along without a few tried and true assistants, who take his place in big towns and cities.

"Christmas Lights"

Little lights, glowing "to light the Christ Child on his way," shine from the windows of the home of Carter H. Harrison of Chicago on Christmas eve.

The wife of Chicago's former mayor has observed the ancient custom every Christmas eve within the reaches of her memory.

"There would be something missing from Christmas eve if the little lights were forgotten," Mrs. Harrison said. "It would be like a Christmas without a tree."

Joseph Murray, attorney, is another prominent Chicagoan who never has let Christmas eve pass without helping to keep this pretty Christmas custom alive.

Mrs. William A. Amberg of the Christ Child society regards the revival of the custom as "a pretty tribute to the ideals of Christmas."

Christmas of The Fathers

The institution of a festival on the day on which the nativity of the Saviour is observed is attributed by some ancient writers to Telephorus, who flourished in the reign of Antoninus Pius, but this is unhistorical. The fact is, it is unknown just when it originated, but surely Dec. 25 was not generally observed as the day before to Chrysostom's time (fourth century) in the eastern church, although earlier in the western.

Some early churches held the festival in the month of May or April, others in January. It is nevertheless almost certain that Dec. 25 cannot be the nativity of the Saviour, for it is then the height of the rainy season in Judea, and shepherds could hardly have been watching their flocks by night on the plains. —New International Encyclopedia.

GOOD MEAT DISHES

NONE OF THEM EXPENSIVE BUT ALL ARE APPETIZING.

Good for the Luncheon or Dinner Menu and a Pleasing Change From the Round of Steaks, Chops or Roasts.

Rabbit Pie.—After boning the rabbit, put the bones, with sufficient water to cover, into a stewpan, together with a large onion, a bunch of mixed herbs and nutmeg, salt and pepper to season, and simmer for an hour. Arrange the rabbit meat in layers in a large pie dish, placing a little fat bacon cut in strips and the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs in between. Strain over the gravy from the bones. Cover with good pastry and bake for an hour and a half.

Beef and Potato Pie.—The ingredients required are one pound of beefsteak, one large onion, two and a half pounds of potatoes, salt to taste. Cut the meat into small pieces, also the onion. Put it to stew for about two hours, then add the potatoes, which have been cut into pieces about the size of the beef. Cover over with a pie crust made from half a pound of flour, a quarter of a pound of lard and half a teaspoonful of baking powder. About forty minutes should be allowed for the baking of the pie.

Beef and Tomato Pie.—Slices of cold beef should be arranged in a pie dish with layers of thickly sliced tomatoes and onions, then add seasoning. Continue the layers till the dish is full; add sufficient gravy to moisten the whole, cover with parboiled potatoes cut in slices and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Cheese and Potato Pie.—This is an unusual dish, but will be found savory. The ingredients required are three-quarters of a pound of cheese, one pint of milk, three pounds of potatoes, three ounces of margarine or dripping, pepper and salt. Mash the potatoes with the milk. Add three-quarters of the fat and cheese, with pepper and salt to taste; mix well and stir over the mixture into a well-greased pie dish. Sprinkle the remainder of the cheese on the top and add the rest of the margarine cut into small pieces. The pie may be baked in front of the fire or in the oven, and will be ready for the table when thoroughly browned.

Sailor's Pie.—Many years ago this pie was popular. The ingredients required are one pound of scraps of fresh uncooked meat, four onions, three pounds of potatoes, a little powdered thyme, one pound or so of suet or dripping crust and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Clean and slice the vegetables and cut the meat in small pieces. Put all into a saucepan with the thyme and seasoning. Simmer until the meat is tender and then cover with pastry rolled out to the size of the saucepan. Fit it well into the saucepan and cook for about an hour and a half, after which cut the crust into medium pieces and arrange them round the stew on a hot dish.

Meat Puffs.—Make a puff paste with dripping or lard, roll out about a quarter of an inch thick and in oblong pieces; place a spoonful of cold meat of any kind, chopped fine and well seasoned, on each piece of paste, roll up and brush over with egg, and bake in a quick oven.

Paste for Cleaning.

Here is something that all housewives do not know: To one pint of boiling water add one and one-half ounces of pure white soap cut into shavings; boil for ten minutes after the soap is thoroughly dissolved. Cool in a china or glass dish. If put into a glass jar and covered tightly it will last two weeks. This paste will cleanse kid gloves and satin slippers, remove spots from woolen goods, and fresh ink stains from carpets. It should be always at hand in the kitchen. To remove paint from clothing saturate the spots two or three times with equal parts of ammonia and turpentine and then wash out in white soapsuds.

Washing Shirt Waists.

When washing shirt waists or middie which have colored collar and cuffs, the color will sometimes run into the white goods. To remove this stain place the article in very sour buttermilk for four to five days, keeping the goods well under the milk. The color will disappear from the white goods and the colored collar and cuffs will remain as before. I have tried this in a number of cases of different articles and find it entirely satisfactory.—New York Press.

Lunch Muffins.

Five tablespoonfuls condensed milk, three-fourths cupful water, two cupfuls flour, three ounces butter, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, two eggs, pinch of salt. Mix flour, salt and baking powder and sift twice. Beat eggs, without separating, until light, and add the milk diluted with water. Add this mixture and the butter which has been melted to the flour. Beat well and bake in greased muffin tins for about 20 to 30 minutes.—Pictorial Review.

GETTING HIS GOAT

By DEAN HERRICK.

Eric Bailey had been called up "on the carpet," and now stood cap in hand listening to Archibald Flahaven's tirade.

Flahaven pounded his desk and his apoplectic face took on an alarming color. "Anyway," he bellowed, "I want you to let Viola alone."

So that was it! Eric had suspected as much. It wasn't the number of steel rails that had been scrapped after all that was causing this tempest in the general manager's brain. His hand clenched, then relaxed and an amused smile curled the corners of his lips. But instantly alive to his position, he sobered again.

Flahaven sprang up. "Laugh, blast you! We'll see who'll laugh. Do you think I'm going to have my daughter waste her time on a day laborer? If I catch you flirting with Viola again, or so much as looking at her, I'll not only discharge you, but blacklist you as well."

"But Mr. Flahaven—" "Get out!" "You'll be sorry. I love Viola and she loves me!" flashed the young man. "Get out!"

A notice to get his money and quit reached his department almost as soon as he did. "All right," he said cheerfully to the messenger. "Say, Tim, want to make a dollar?"

"Sure!" "Go and bet Patsy O'Brien that I'll get the old man's goat in two weeks."

"Aw, go on!" That night, as pre-arranged by telephone, Viola met Eric at the gate of her father's premises.

"Hello, dearest girl!" he whispered cheerfully, drawing her close. "I'm going away, dear, but I'm coming back before long. I've been discharged and I'm going to hunt more work. But, tell me first, do you really love me?" "Forever—and you know it, Eric."

"And you are willing to be poor and pack lunches for me, and have me come home black as a miner every night?" "Perfectly willing."

"You are the very dearest girl in the world! Now I must go. Good-by, sweetheart."

"Milly," said her father at breakfast, addressing his wife, "I wish you would do something for me."

Mrs. Flahaven acquiesced with the celerity her husband always demanded in advance. "Yes, Archibald."

"Give a party!" "Why, Arch?"

"Yes, yes. Give a big one, bang-up—go the limit. Rockwell, the president of the company, telephoned that some of the bankers who own the plant are coming up for a couple of days. Have it then!"

"All right, Archibald. A dinner dance will be just the thing!" "And Viola, make the best of your opportunities!"

"Yes, father!" But poor Viola was white and miserable.

Days passed, busy ones for everybody, wretched ones for Viola. One afternoon the desk phone in Flahaven's office rang. Rockwell asked him to come to a conference of officials at the hotel.

Flahaven went. He was shown to a room where chairs were arranged around a big mahogany table, but only one of which was occupied.

"How do you do, Mr. Flahaven? Won't you sit down? We're both a bit early, but the others will be in soon."

"Eric Bailey?" choked the general manager, agast.

"I'm glad you remember me!" smiled Eric. "I didn't think I was so important."

The other was speechless.

"I've been thinking over a few things, Mr. Flahaven. I want some advice. Once there was a young man who happened suddenly by a death to fall into a position he was not fitted for. So, without telling anyone what he was going to do, he put on overalls and determined to learn a thing or two about labor himself. Then he happened to fall in love with a girl, the daughter of a man who had worked his way up from the ranks to power. For this crime he was discharged and blacklisted. Now the young man had it in his power to discharge the father, but he was trying, among other things, to learn self-control. So he got out of town and took a few days to think it over. He decided to let things go and not make a fuss, but he thinks he ought to have a reward. Now, what would you say was fair, Mr. Flahaven?"

"Anything?" faltered the other.

"Viola?"

"Yes!"

"All right. Thank you, sir. Suppose you announce the engagement at your big party, then." He rang a bell sharply, and a page appeared. "Tell the gentlemen to come in now," he said; "and you," turning to the general manager, "get out!"

"But—" protested Flahaven. "Get out!" thundered Eric, banging the table as the other meekly obeyed. The corners of his mouth twitched. "I deserved that much," he said to himself. "I guess I'm about even with him now."

And as six dignified men came filing into the room he reached for the telephone. "This is Eric, Tim," he explained. "Collect that dollar from O'Brien. I got the old man's goat today."

COOKING UTENSILS OF GLASS

Baking Dishes Made of New Material Have Been Found Very Satisfactory and Almost Unbreakable.

A new material now on the market for cooking utensils is glass. A great variety of cooking dishes are made, but the baking dishes or casseroles, would probably appeal most to the home-keeper. No silver or copper container is required for the casserole when put on the table and hence they are comparatively inexpensive.

A great variety of dishes have been cooked in the glass casserole with splendid results. The material is cooked uniformly throughout the dish, due to the conductivity of glass and the results have been just as good with a soufflé as with a meat pie.

The oven can be better regulated since one can see the material cooking in the dish—i. e. one can see whether it is cooking too fast or too slow.

The utensils are attractive and seem to be almost unbreakable.

The casserole has proved to be the most satisfactory baking dish we have ever used.—Magdalena Hahn, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.

Pepper Meat Cups.

Take as many large peppers as you need, either green or red, but of the sweet variety, and as round as you can get them. Cut off the tops, take out the seeds, pour boiling water over them and cook gently for five minutes. Drain, well, place in a baking dish and fill with a mixture made according to these directions: Take enough of the white meat of chicken—other meats will do if you have no cooked chicken on hand—fill a cup with the meat chopped fine, one and a half cupfuls of bread crumbs moistened with a little hot water to swell them; also a large tomato peeled and chopped, with two teaspoonfuls of grated or chopped onion, an ounce of butter, a level tablespoonful of chopped parsley, half a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of red pepper and a raw egg well beaten. Pour a little stock or hot water around the peppers and a very little over each one and bake 25 minutes.—New York Sun.

Chocolate Hearts.

Two ounces of butter, two ounces of cornstarch, two ounces of grated chocolate, a tablespoonful of milk, two eggs, one-quarter tablespoonful of baking powder, three ounces of powdered sugar.

Cream the butter and sugar together, beat in the eggs, next add the chocolate, cornstarch, baking powder and sufficient milk to make a thick batter (rather over a tablespoonful may be required).

Have ready 12 little heart-shaped tins well greased. Divide the mixture between them and bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.

Sour Milk Spice Cakes.

This calls for a cupful of sugar and a half a cupful of butter creamed together. To this should be added a beaten egg, one teaspoonful of each of the following: Cinnamon, salt, nutmeg, ground cloves and vanilla. Add the cup of sour milk or cream and a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little cold water. Finally add two cupfuls of flour and a cupful of raisins tossed in a little of the flour. A little citron may be added if desired, though this is not necessary.—New York Sun.

To Remove Iodine Stains.

Immerse the stained articles immediately in a gallon of water to which has been added about two teaspoonfuls of plain household ammonia.

FILING LAW NIL

December 7 will mark the end of a practice that has long been annoying to political candidates, that of filing periodic expense accounts during and after campaigns. The filing law has been repealed. Candidates would probably not be required to file statements this year but an attorney informs the county clerk that it is better to do so this time. The limit of thirty days after election for filing such election accounts expires Dec. 7. Many candidates had not filed their accounts by the Saturday before election. Hereafter, however, only the treasurers of political organizations will be obliged to file expense accounts.

BANK CONDITIONS GOOD
Madison, Wis., Dec. 4.—Wisconsin state banks and trust companies were never in so flourishing and prosperous a condition as they are today, according to the abstract of the state banking department. A gain of $14,675,217.15 in the total resources is noted in the closing on Nov. 17, over the closing on Nov. 10, 1915.

This almost doubles any previous gain for yearly period, the nearest record being a gain of $25,756,000 in September, 1911-12.

There was a gain of $6,799,126.93 in loans and discounts in the same period and an increase of approximately $15,000,000 in deposits.

The total resources of state banks and trusts companies now total $298,617,175.61.

"It is a smashing gain over last year," said Commissioner A. E. Kuoli on Monday. "The state department has never seen one like it before."

Co. Board Proceedings

Rhinelander, Wis., Nov. 14th, 1916, 2 p. m.
Board of Supervisors of Oneida County, Wis. Met in annual session.
Meeting called to order by Chairman Ira E. Smith.

Roll call. The following members were present: Abbey, Baker, Barlow, Bernstein, Binkley, Dunn, Frederick, Gooden, Gross, Le Claire, Luedke, Mentink, Weiden, Meyer, A. Olson, C. H. Olson, Wm. Olson, Russ, Smith, Stefonsick, Dorwin, Webster, Wolgram, Woodricket.

The following report of County Superintendent of Schools, Training School and Agricultural Representative were read:
To the Honorable County Board of Oneida County:

Gentlemen: It gives me pleasure to comply with the State Law and report to you at this time regarding the schools under my supervision. The school census of June 30th, 1916, shows there were 2310 children of school age outside of the City of Rhinelander in Oneida County. For your information I wish to state that in contrast with this number there were 1561 June 30th, 1913 an increase of 449 in the past three years, practically 25% of the number shown by the census of 1916. 1526 were in the rural graded or high schools of the county, part or all of the year 1915-1916. This is a large increase in registry over any previous year.

These were taught by seventy-four teachers, aside from these teachers there is a state graded school and a tricity high school at Tripoli which takes in the children from the Town of Lynne, Oneida County, and are taught by five teachers. I also include in my inspection these schools, so my supervision extends over the work of 79 teachers.

It is my aim to visit all the schools in my district twice and, if necessary more times during the school year and give every possible aid to better school conditions and better teaching. Already, since the opening of school in early September I have visited all the schools in the county, the rural schools a full half day each and it has been my aim to make these visits profitable to the patrons of the schools and teachers.

Miss Amanda Rice, supervising teacher who holds her position under an act of the state legislature of 1915, and is paid by the State of Wisconsin, also gives all her time to inspection and assistance. After her first visits, Miss Rice devotes much of her energies to assisting the younger and less experienced teachers.

While the creation of the office of supervising teacher for the counties in the state is work in which I took part, and over which I have no control, I do feel the step was a wise one. The supervising teacher does not confine her work to visiting schools, but meets school officers and puts forth her efforts in getting the people of the community together, and thus tries to use the school as a bond of common interest and mutual benefit.

Our Training school is another large factor in bettering school conditions in the county, or is it confined to the simple work of instruction, but it is used as the nucleus of the entire county school system. It is open six days in a week that teachers and school officers may go there to get information and assistance. The teachers of the county well know that they can always get assistance at the Oneida County Training school. Of course, when the new State Normal is established in Rhinelander, this institution at the expense of the state will take care of all the work now done at the County Training school. A permanent county expense of about $2,500 annually will be removed. However up to date we feel the expense is small as compared with the benefits of this Training School, but this work will be equally well done when a Normal is established.

It would not be proper to close my report without speaking of another factor which has done much to help the teachers become more proficient in their work. The County Agricultural Representative not only has been a great aid to the teachers but his untiring efforts have placed us on the map as one of the leading agricultural counties of Wisconsin.

To Mr. W. D. Jeday and his predecessor, E. L. Luther, is no small amount of credit due for our great success as an agricultural county.

I do believe the cost of these different additions to our educational system has been small as compared with the benefit received. Without your hearty co-operation not one of these steps could have been taken. These rapid strides upward have been due to the progress and liberality of the County Board. For this I wish to thank you and your predecessors in office.

The Training school board at its meeting last Friday afternoon by an unanimous vote recommended that the County Board place in its levy at this time $2,000 to pay the county's share of the training school outlay for 1917 and $1,250 to defray the county's share of the expenses for the agricultural representative.

I recommend that you raise the following amounts to pay the salary and expenses of the County Superintendent also cost of meetings of the County Committee.

Salary of County Superintendent.....	$1200.00
Stationery by itemized account.....	150.00
Traveling expenses of county superintendent itemized account.....	250.00
Clerk hire.....	200.00

A Total Budget of.....$2000.00

By the way the law requires that you elect a member of the county school committee for three years to fill the place of George Kelly of Little Rice whose term expires with this County Board meeting. While I do not wish to interfere with your election Mr. George Kelly is a good competent member.

Below are the reports of the Principal of the Training school and the Agricultural Representative.

Report of the Principal of the Training School

To the Training School Board, F. A. Lowell, Secretary.

The records of the Training school show that one of the most important changes made during the year was that of raising the entrance requirements so that the students shall have a year of High school work or the equivalent, formerly pupils finishing the eighth grade were admitted to the Training School. This change was recommended in the last annual report to your Board, and at the same time it was prophesied that the immediate result would be a smaller attendance. Up to the present time, the enrollment, which is twenty-seven, is even less than it was a year ago at this time, but only those having the equivalent of one year of High school are enrolled. One has withdrawn to teach and one has finished and will soon begin teaching. Of those now attending the school ten are High school graduates. At present there is opportunity for excellent work with all the students and the model department supplies practice for all who are fitted to take it.

Ten of the students from the Training school department are practicing in the model department. This work is under the efficient supervision of Miss Minnie Schofield. While the practice teachers are observed and directed, they are also led to become independent teachers. Children are taught here in the first four grades. The pupils are learning well, and patrons are well pleased with the advancement their children are making.

They are given more than ordinary instruction in music by Miss Maude Calvert, the assistant in the Training school department. Miss Calvert is also an exceptionally good teacher in all her work.

The students are interested in their work, and those who are taking practice are delighted with it, they respond willingly to the requirements of the faculty. We have never before seen a school so earnest and so well behaved. There is a spirit of co-operation and of sympathy and regard for the school. This spirit seems to be in those who were in the school for help in their present work in various parts of the county.

The University is continuing its service of lantern slides this year as heretofore and the faculty of the Training school is continuing the work of going out to districts in the county to help the schools in community meetings. The county representative W. D. Jeday has charge of the agriculture in the Training school, thus our graduates will have a part in the agricultural development of the county. The county supervising teacher and the county superintendent have visited the school this year and have given helpful suggestions. The business management of the school is carefully and effectively handled. The school property is kept in excellent condition by a faithful and competent janitor. The fire escape recently placed on the building has been tried and proven satisfactory. A piano has been purchased for the model department. The faculty and janitor are planning to make some improvements in beautifying the grounds and in planting school gardens. The school is active in improving education in the county, and invite citizens to call for its services whenever possible.

Respectfully submitted,

By W. N. Mackin, Principal.

Report of the County Agricultural Representative

To the Honorable Agricultural Board of Oneida County:

Gentlemen: Since Nov. 1915, I have made 624 farm visits and have visited 205 different farms. There have been 925 office and telephone calls and 3352 letters written, I have given talks at 55 farmer's meetings attended by 1943 people.

Considering beneficial results obtained, the potato development work has been the most important. Better seed was planted and better cultural methods used than ever before. With a season adverse to the potato crop our county has realized better than an average yield and the quality has been finer. Our potatoes have topped the market the entire season. By winning first over all counties of the state at the State Potato Show last year and later on making such a good showing at the National Potato Show, Oneida county received such effective advertising that it was possible for the certified seed growers to sell their product for from 25 to 50 cents per bushel in advance of the regular market price. 4000 bushels of the certified seed of all varieties were sold at $1.25 per bushel and over 6000 bushels at $1.00. This advertising also brings better prices for table stock in that it is the means of getting more buyers in the field and the stronger competition makes for higher prices to the farmer. Never have potatoes been bought on so small a margin as this year.

The dairy work is of equal importance with the potato development, but it cannot be pushed so fast and the results are slower to be seen. The principal work in this line consisted in bringing into the county pure bred animals which are to be used as the foundations of future registered herds and in keeping accurate account of the production of herds in different parts of the county. It is an evident fact that at least 1/4 of the cows of the county are kept at a loss and every effort will be made to eliminate these unprofitable cows from the herds. The coming year we are planning to test a number of herds to find out whether or not any of the animals have tuberculosis. It is our belief that the native cows of the county are free from this dread disease, and if we find such to be the case, we can keep the disease out of our herds by introducing no affected animals into the county. The third important line of work consisted in the improvement of the grain crops. This was done in two ways. First, by helping them treat all their seed for the prevention of smut. Last year at the State Grain Show, Oneida county had the best sample of oats exhibited both in grain and sheaf and also second best sample of spring wheat. The farmers have found so far that the pedigree grains out-yield the common ones and are much better in quality.

For 18 weeks the Agricultural Representative taught Agriculture in the Training school, we consider this work very important, for were it not for this agricultural training a large percentage of the rural teachers would begin their country schools with no knowledge whatever of the fundamental principals of agriculture.

Besides the main phases of the work the County Representative takes up individual problems of the farmers with them. Better dairy rations are worked out, profitable commercial fertilizers selected crop rations planned, silos built, buildings planned, potatoes and seed grains bought and sold, and live stock improved.

It is the business of the County Representative to call on every farmer who asks for his services and then to so far as possible visit every other farmer in the county, but the territory is large and the visiting time limited. For this reason any farmer wishing the services of the Agricultural Representative should feel free to call upon him or write him at any time. Every farmer will be given prompt attention and each call taken care of in the regular order.

The ultimate object of this work is to make Oneida county a more desirable place in which to live both in a financial and social way, and any help toward the furtherance of this cause will always be appreciated.

Respectfully submitted,

W. D. Jeday, County Agricultural Agent.

Moved by Supervisor Barlow seconded by Supervisor C. H. Olson that reports of superintendent of schools, Training school and Agricultural Representative be accepted as read and placed on file. Motion carried.

The following communication was read:

Mr. John J. Verage, County Clerk

Rhinelander, Wis.

Approved
Please notify the authorities interested and change your records to conform to the above action.

Yours very truly,

Wisconsin Highway Commission.

By A. R. Hurst, State Highway Engineer.

To John J. Verage, County Clerk

Rhinelander, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir: In accordance with the provisions of subsection 3 of section 1317m-1, of the Statutes, you are hereby notified that Oneida County is entitled to receive from the appropriation for State aid for Highways available for distribution in 1917, the sum of $3,702.39 the valuation of your county, as equalized by the State Tax Commission for 1916, is 401,691% of the total valuation of all the counties in the state. Therefore in accordance with the provisions of subsection 2 of section 1317m-3 of the statutes, your county is entitled to receive this same percentage of the Total State Highway appropriation available for distribution for 1917 construction, which amounts to $921,700.37, made up of $785,000 appropriation from the general fund and $136,700.37 derived from the Auto License fees.

The distribution of the above amount $3,702.39 available from the State for State aid road and bridge construction in your county should be made by your county board at the November session, the method of legal distribution is thoroughly covered in sub sections 1-1a-2-3-4-5. Of section 1317m-5, of the statutes. If the application for state aid in any county shall not call for the full amount available, the procedure to cover the additional amount uncalled for is fully covered by subsections 5 & 6 of section 1317m-8 of the Statutes.

It may be stated that in accordance with the present statutes, the amount allotted to your county is based entirely upon the valuation of the county and the applications for state aid by the county and the units of government in it have no influence on the amount allotted, and it may be well to state further that no matter what the action of the County Board in granting petitions, or what be the deficiency in the state aid allotted above, (Continued On Last Page)

Riley's Christmas Message

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY, passing a winter in Florida, sent the following Christmas message to the people of Indiana:

"Christmas means love. We cannot picture it without seeing the spangled Christmas tree glit with the faces of gleeful youngsters, glad parents and happy bodies returned home from town or far metropolises.

"It sounds like bells and crackling logs and shouts of children, and even our old, round shouldered, sorrow ridden planet, with his eyes knocked out on his cheek, pauses to smile from sea to sea, and love is everywhere rejuvenated."

Yule Log and Bear's Head.

As far as any one can see backward into the history of the English, or, indeed, in any of the northern nations, the Yule log and the bear's head cut very important figures in the Christmas celebrations. The singing of carols or songs essentially fitted for the season also dates back for its origin to the old days. The bringing in and lighting of the Yule log was the important ceremony which marked the opening of the revels. This event took place on Christmas eve.

Symbols of The Tree

In many of the ancient faiths the range of human existence is symbolized by a tree, called the "tree of life," the "world tree" or the "tree of existence." The most extended elaboration of this idea is found in the old Norse mythology. Yggdrasil, the world tree, has three roots, one reaching to heaven, one to hell, one to earth. The serpent gnaws at the foot of Yggdrasil, seeking the destruction of the universe, and near by sit the three norns who spin the fates of all mankind. The old English maypole is the same tree bursting into beauty in the spring. In the early calendars Adam and Eve were commemorated on Christmas eve, their symbol being the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. The next day was the day of Christ, whose symbol was the tree of life, or the cross. So when men's minds were escaping from paganism the tree of old mythology became associated with the Nativity and again with the cross.

Songs Raise on High

Sound over all waters, reach from all lands,
The chorus of voices, the claspings of hands;
Sing hymns that were sung by the stars of the morn,
Sing songs of the angel when Jesus was born!
With glad jubilations
Bring hope to the nations!
The dark night is ending and dawn has begun;
Rise, hope of the ages, arise like the sun,
All speech flow to music, all hearts beat as one,
Blow, bugles of battle, the marches of peace;
East, west, north and south, let the quarrels all cease,
Sing the song of great joy that the angels began,
Sing of glory to God and of good will to man!
Hark, joining the chorus
The heavens bend o'er us!

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

New Year's Morning

By HELEN HUNT JACKSON

ONLY a night from old to new!
Only a night and so much wrought!
The Old Year's heart all weary grew,
But said, "The New Year rest has brought."
The Old Year's heart its hopes laid down
As in a grave, but, trusting, said,
"The blossoms of the New Year's crown
Bloom from the ashes of the dead."

The Old Year's heart was full of greed;
With selfishness it longed and ached
And cried, "I have not half I need;
My thirst is bitter and unslaked,
But to the New Year's generous hand
All gifts in plenty shall return;
True loving it shall understand;
By all my failures it shall learn
I have been reckless; it shall be Quiet and calm and pure of life.
I was a slave; it shall go free
And find sweet peace where I leave strife."

Only a night from old to new!
Night and the healing balm of sleep!
Each morn is New Year's morn come true,
More of a festival to keep.
All nights are sacred nights to make
Confession and resolve and prayer.
All days are sacred days to wake
New gladness in the sunny air.

Only a night from old to new!
Only a sleep from night to morn!
The new is but the old come true;
Each sunrise sees a new year born.

NEW YEAR BELL IS SILENT.

Famous Relic of American Independence Formerly Rang in the Year. Every New Year's are citizens of Philadelphia gather round the shrine of Liberty, Independence Hall, to hear the New Year rung in. Formerly this service was performed by the bell now known as the Liberty bell.

Before that memorable day in 1776 when the nation's fathers gave forth to the world their Declaration of Independence, whose signing was heralded by the ringing of the bell, New Year's rejoicing was started by the first peal of what is now known as the Liberty bell.

After the events of July 4, 1776, made the bell one of the most priceless relics of the nation, custodians of Independence Hall restricted its use, fearing some mishap, and after 1839 the bell was no longer used for the New Year's salute. In 1832, on the celebration of George Washington's birthday, it was rung and not again for three years, when on July 8, 1835, while the funeral procession of Chief Justice Marshall was passing, the bell was tolled.

Suddenly the note grew discordant. An investigation was made. It was found that a crack had been started. The bell had completed its task. No more would it greet the New Year or pay tribute to the nation's great. But from the tower of Liberty's cradle another bell always welcomes the coming of a New Year.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Not Alone on New Year.

Of course it is customary to make New Year's day the day of new resolutions, but there is no particular reason why we should confine this work to this one day in the year. In fact, the very best resolution we can make on New Year's day is to resolve that during the coming year we will use every endeavor to make each day a day of self-improvement; that not a single day shall pass upon which we have not attempted to speak a good word or do a kind deed for somebody; that not a day shall pass upon which we will not try to weed out some of the tares and brambles of character that now offend others or some of the bad habits that offend even ourselves.

Pay Up Day in China.

At the Chinese New Year the houses and other buildings are decked with flowers, and the streets are thronged with people, who come out to buy provisions, new clothes and gifts. One good New Year custom in China is that of settling up all debts before the old year has died out. A Chinaman who allows the New Year to dawn before he has settled with his creditors feels himself disgraced.

BOYCOT SHATTERS PRICES
Boycotts by housewives at Chicago on butter, eggs and poultry are bringing down the prices of those commodities and commission man to day were anxiously watching the developments.

Effects of the boycott first became apparent Saturday when wholesale eggs dropped one cent a dozen. Retail storage eggs were 33 to 39 cents. Butter fell off 2 cents, extra grades retailing for 43 to 45.

Wholesale Slaughter.

Hudson--"But look here, old man. As far as I can make out you're engaged to four girls at once. The little god with the arrows has been pretty busy with you." Judson--"Arrows? The little beast has been using a machine gun on me."

USING LEFT-OVERS

THEY CAN BE UTILIZED TO ADVANTAGE AND MEAN ECONOMY.

How to Keep Them if They Are Not to Be Used the Same Day--Some Recipes for Use of Left-Over Bread.

Of all the left-over remnants of food from the kitchen bread is the most common, perhaps, and many pieces are daily thrown away which a little thought would turn to excellent use. If the left-over pieces are not utilized the same day, an excellent plan is to wrap them in pieces of waxed paper and store them in a stone jar. They will keep well for a week in this way.

Dried Crumbs for Stuffing and Meat Frying.Put the crusts and small pieces in a baking pan and dry in the oven without burning. They may then be put through the food chopper and stored in clean mason jars until wanted. They may be used as a basis for meat croquettes, poultry stuffing and other things.

French toast may be made from the whole slices of left-over bread. It is an excellent luncheon pick-up dish. Beat an egg and add a little milk. Dip the slices of bread in this and fry a piece brown in hot drippings. Serve with butter, jelly or marmalade.

Bread Custard Pudding.Cut the bread in dainty shapes and butter liberally. Make a plain custard of eggs, milk and sugar. Put in baking dish and float the buttered bread on top. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg and bake in a quick oven until brown. This is excellent.

To make croutons for the various soups so much relished in summer, cut the bread in cubes and fry in butter or dripping just before serving with the soup. Add five or six to each plate of soup. These are delicious with almost any soup.

Bread Jelly for Invalids.Scald the stale bread freed from crusts. Mash to a paste until of mushlike consistency. Add a little sugar and flavoring, mold, chill and serve with cream.

Sterilized bread crumbs are especially valuable for the young children in the household. A jar should be kept filled with these. They may be heated when wanted and sprinkled in soft eggs, soups, milk, fruit juices and, indeed, anything eaten by very young children where fresh bread is often positively dangerous.

Dried bread is also valuable for mixing with various other foods for feeding the household pets.

MANY WAYS OF USING CIDER

There is No Need of Consigning It to the Vinegar Barrel Just Because It is Getting "Hard."

When your sweet cider begins to get "hard" don't consign it to the vinegar barrel, but try using it in the following ways:

To take apples or pears, use cider instead of water to cover half the fruit. Sweeten with brown sugar instead of white, add a few cloves, a stick of cinnamon, a pinch of ground ginger, and the result will be a dish of deliciously flavored fruit covered with a rich, spicy lot of juice.

Or use cider as the foundation of a gelatin or minute tapioca dessert in place of water. Sweeten to taste, add a bit of lemon juice, and when beginning to set add some chopped dates and English walnuts. Or it can be served perfectly plain and rather tart with the meat course.

It seems to fit right in with a turkey or chicken dinner, just as much as cranberry jelly, and is a delightful change.

English Pudding.One-half cupful chopped salt pork. Fill cup with boiling water, let stand a few minutes to dissolve, two-thirds cupful molasses, finish filling cup with sour milk, one teaspoonful each of soda, cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, one cupful chopped raisins, three and one-half or four cupfuls flour. Steam two hours.

Sauce for Pudding.One cupful sugar, two cupfuls boiling water, one-half teaspoonful each of salt and nutmeg. Thicken with two teaspoonfuls flour. Remove from stove, add a tablespoonful of good sharp vinegar and piece of butter.

Homemade Soap.Homemade hard soap that you know is sweet and clean is easily made, costs but a few cents and saves several dollars' worth of the purchased article. Put into a crock one can of lye, pour on it a quart of water. Let cool. Add a half cupful of borax in water to dissolve, mix together a half cupful each of ammonia and kerosene. Have five pounds of clean grease warmed in a granite pan, pour in the cold lye, then the ammonia and oil and the borax, stirring with a clean stick until all is well blended. Pour into a strong box and in 24 hours cut in bars.

Cherry Core.Half dozen apples, half pint water, one cupful canned cherries, one cupful sugar, six candied cherries. Pare the apples and remove the cores; put into a deep pan with sugar and water, cover tightly and boil until the apples are tender. Turn often, as the syrup will not cover the fruit. Put each apple into an individual serving dish, about the edges place the jelly formed by the syrup, and let cool. Fill the center of each apple with cherries and serve with whipped cream topped with a candied cherry.

Over the Bridge of Sighs.Nine times out of ten it is over the Bridge of Sighs that we pass the narrow gulf from youth to manhood. That interval is usually occupied by an ill-placed or disappointed affection. We recover and we find ourselves new beings. The intellect has become hardened by the fire through which it has passed. The mind profits by the wrecks of every passion, and we may measure our road to wisdom by the sorrows we have undergone.--Bulwer Lytton.

Many Funny Things.Ever see a dog limp when his tail is stepped on? Ever see the wise man of the village get out on a limb and saw it off? Ever see grandpas lead two frisky calves out to the lot? Ever see a book agent trying to get over a barb wire fence quick before the bull got there? Oh, yes, there are lots of funny things besides owning a goat, or being one.--Wisconsin Agriculturist.

BIG DINNER--LITTLE PRICES

THAT IS exactly what we mean-- a BIG Christmas Dinner at a LITTLE price. Certain Groceries are far richer in nutriment than other grades of the same article. Often there is no difference in the price with some dealers. It is up to him when he buys his stock. If he is a stickler and insists on nothing but the best he GETS the best and his customers get the same. Otherwise "something just as good" is substituted, but it is NEVER just as good. This store buys only the best, and at small prices.

FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER we have a great variety of everything the careful housewife could desire, down to the smallest article needed to make it a dinner LONG TO BE REMEMBERED. They were purchased for THIS SPECIAL PURPOSE, and every single article will MAKE GOOD to the limit.

PARENTS TO MEET AT HIGH SCHOOL

Prof. Cheever Will Address Gathering—Musical and Literary Program

A meeting of the parents of all high school students and of other patrons of the school who are interested, is called at the High school building Friday evening. We hope that every citizen who is interested will attend this meeting, but especially that parents of the High school students will all come. They will have an opportunity to meet the teachers who have charge of their children's classes and to see the building where their children spend their time. A program of music and recitations is being arranged. Professor Walter Cheever of the Milwaukee Normal will address the parents on some subjects that are of great importance. An opportunity will be given for conference after the meeting, when the questions or topics may be brought up for discussion. It is possible that steps may be taken to organize a permanent association. Remember the day and the time; Friday evening at 7:30 at the high school building.

The evening school had two meetings this week, Monday and Wednesday nights. The attendance has passed the 50 mark and we hope to see it grow still more. There were several additional members to each of the classes Monday night. Teachers were particularly gratified with the increase in the class in English for foreigners. There are many people in Rhinelander who would be benefited by the work of this class.

Instruction is given in reading, writing and speaking English. There is no charge except a small deposit which each member makes to insure his regular attendance and it may be necessary to buy a few books later in the course. Mr. Palmer of the Veneer force has been secured to teach this class. He has had several years experience in teaching and comes to us very well recommended.

The report cards for the 2nd six-week period are being given out this week in grades and high school. We hope the parents will read these with considerable care. If the standings are not satisfactory teachers and pupils should be asked to explain the cause of poor work. Earnest cooperation on the part of the parents right now may save sorrowful disappointments later in the year. The Superintendent will be glad to talk over the work of any pupil at any time. Do not hesitate to call on him if there is any question or problem he can help you solve.

Members of the eighth grade in the Junior school have done some excellent work in making illustrated copies of the poem "Evangeline." Some of the books show unusual care and ability on the part of the young illustrators. We hope to have some of these books on exhibition at the high school Friday evening. They reflect great credit on the members of the class and their teacher, Miss Margery Krueger.

The Principal of the Industrial school can make good use of a roll top desk. If any one has a second-hand desk he wishes to dispose of, will he please notify either Mr. Short or Mr. Colburn. Miss White and Miss English of the High school corps each spent a day recently visiting schools in Manitowoc.

TOM AND JERRY HERE

OIL ON OGDEN LANDS
 Houston, Tex.—The possibility of realizing large returns from the estate of Francis A. Ogden, the wealthy real estate operator who died in Houston in June, 1914, was intimated by William R. Curkeet, Madison, Wis., the attorney representing the Wisconsin heirs-at-law. Mr. Curkeet said he had come to inspect the lands of Ogden located in Humble, Tex., an oil region. These lands, he said, would be developed for oil and would be held by the estate for the operating if they should produce sufficient. Oil has already been found on some of the land and wells will be dug. The balance of the Ogden lands will be placed on the market soon.

Christmas Greetings

THE SQUIER STORE

When Sumner Scored.
Once when Charles Sumner was in London he gave a ready reply. At a dinner given in his honor he spoke of "the ashes" of some dead hero. "Ashes! What American English!" rudely broke in an Englishman; "dust, you mean, Mr. Sumner. We don't burn our dead in this country." "Yet," instantly replied Mr. Sumner, with a courteous smile, "your poet Gray tells us that 'Even in our ashes live their wonted fires.'" The American was not criticized again that evening.

Monkeys' Playful Antics.
The merry antics of monkeys are many and diverting. Humboldt was acquainted with a monkey in India which took delight in riding a pig. Every morning the creature caught one, leaped astride his back, and clinging there with great firmness, took his fill of riding. Another monkey, domesticated by a missionary, used to put the family cat, a strong, good-natured animal, to the same use.

Error All Too Common.
Too many of us seem to think that when we want to show our independence we must get mad about it.

Smile Always Gets Results.
Do you know that when your face wears a smile, other people smile, too, without knowing why? Or when you look cross or downcast, other faces become shadowed? It is a fine thing to pass your lightness of heart along, but how about the other? If we are feeling sad, let us try to keep it to ourselves, and not, by an overcast face, pass it on to someone else.—Evangelical Herald.

When Giving Castor Oil.
The disagreeable taste of castor oil may be concealed by giving the dose in hot milk flavored with salt and a sprinkle of black pepper. It is necessary to have the milk warm enough to mix with the oil or some of it will float on the surface. Castor oil can also be made more palatable by adding lemon juice.

Patience and Courage Needed.
Have patience with all things, but chiefly have patience with yourself. Do not lose courage by considering your own imperfections, but instantly set about remedying them; every day begin the task anew.—Francis de Sales.

Learning From the Apple Tree.
That apple tree is very old, but I never saw prettier blossoms upon it than those which it now bears. The tree grows a little new wood every year, and I suppose it is out of that new wood that these blossoms come. Like the apple tree, I try to grow a little new wood each year.—Longfellow.

Explaining Catastrophe.
A five-year-old boy was joyously driving his pet dog hitched to a small wagon one afternoon last week. A woman passing said, "That is a fine horse and wagon you have." "It's a train and a engine," testily replied the child. Returning two hours later the woman saw the boy sitting on the sidewalk beside the broken wagon. "Oh, what has happened?" said she sympathetically. "The engine saw a cat," briefly replied the boy.

Preventive for Wrinkles.
Who was it that said "A good digestion and a merry heart will do more to prevent wrinkles than any wrinkle cream invented?" Whoever did say it is pretty nearly right, isn't he?

In his lecture on the subject of "The Dry Wave" at the Congregational church at 4:30 next Sunday afternoon, A. R. Bucknam in relating the results of prohibition in Arizona will tell how the Bank Teller succeeded the Bar-keeper as repository for the pay checks in mine and lumber camps, and how the jail doors stayed shut when the saloon doors stopped swinging. In a communication received from Mr. Bucknam he says that:

"Left to the men, Arizona would still be 'wet'. It was not until the women were given an equal place with the men at the election polls that the change came on January 1, 1915.

Prohibition has worked a radical change, to which business, municipal government and politics have not yet adjusted their affairs completely. Even the peace officers over the state do not quite know what to make of it. The rust has accumulated on the locks of many outlying jails so that they can't be opened with a key. There has been no occasion to open many of them. Even the city of Prescott did not have an arrest for three months last summer.

Bobbie Burns, the dauntless marshal of Williams, spent most of his official time in former years wrestling in gutters with recalcitrant drunks and thugs; now he rides about in an automobile and wears a boiled shirt. One Sunday morning a few months after prohibition closed the saloons he was standing in front of the county police station gazing at the millennium which he saw settling over Bill Williams' Peak and enveloping what was formerly known far and wide as the toughest town on the Santa Fe. He watched the Mexicans and Greeks going to church with their wives, and he thought of other Sunday mornings when he had led these same men off to jail to recover from Saturday night sprees.

"I can't tell a sheepherder now from a traveling man for a candy house," Bobbie declared. "They are wearing wrist watches and the cow-punchers shed their horses before they get to town and jerk their pants down over their boots. Can you beat it?"

Marshal Bobbie Burns' vision of the millennium widened as he talked. He declared that if it was not for the hoboes who drop off the trains at Williams he would get soft in the arms.

But there are other points of view. Some men see in the change the loss to local trade of an element which now saves its money to spend it in California and other places where liquor is sold. Others point to the charity of the saloon people who never denied cat or drink to the needy and charge the increased cost of public and private charities to the elimination of the saloon. Still others see in the economic change a tightening of pursestrings due to the going of the liberal, open-handed spirit which dominated cities and towns. With the treating habit gone, they contend that men now overlook the former courtesy of offering a cigar to a bystander at cigar stands, and the generosity of the saloon days is succeeded by penny-chasing thrift. One reasoner mournfully maintains that a greater vice than saloons will soon appear—the vice of thrift. People will become so thrifty, he says, that slovenliness will appear, living conditions will deteriorate and the hoarding of coin will become the chief diversion of laborers.

It is time that laborers have bank accounts who never knew what saving meant. The savings accounts of the state banks increased nearly a half million dollars in eight months. The total deposits of all State and National banks in Arizona increased $3,000,000 during the same period of prohibition. At one of the logging camps of northern Arizona recently the superintendent from headquarters was handed a bundle of checks, many of them three and four months old, and requested to deposit them in the bank to the credit of the different owners. These men had never saved when the saloons were running. This was the beginning of the vice of thrift.

In Tombstone ladies seldom walked on the north side of the main business block of the camp. There was a whole block in Phoenix that was under the ban, and almost every city and town in the state had certain portions of the business districts that were shunned by women. Mothers admonished their children against passing on that particular side of the street. These plague spots have shrunk; many of them have disappeared altogether.

I examined the records of the sheriff's offices and city police stations in ten counties of the twelve that were "wet" in 1914. I found that there were 3043 arrests for drunkenness during the first six months of 1914 and 461 for the same period of 1915 under prohibition, a decrease of 2579, or more than eighty-four per cent."

These and many other seasons will be given in advising Rhinelander and Oneida county to vote "Dry" in April.

BIG CROWD AT F. O. E. BALL.
The most successful social affair ever given under the auspices of the Rhinelander Eagles was the Thanksgiving ball at the Armory Thursday night. Approximately one hundred and sixty couples were on the floor, one of the largest crowds to ever assemble in the building. The entertainment committee left nothing undone which might add to the pleasure of their guests. Danner's orchestra furnished the music and provided an extra fine program of late dance selections. The next big dance to be given at the Armory will be that of the paper makers at Christmas time.

Fireflies' Light.
The larvae of the fireflies are able to produce a glow and this has led some to mistake them for glowworms. In reality there are no real glowworms in the United States. The source of the glow in immature fireflies is not known exactly, but it is believed that some of the minute glowing organism of the female insect may adhere to the young, enabling them to give forth a light of their own.

The following report of the Superintendent of Poor was read. Rhinelander, Wis., November 13th, 1916.

Honorable Gentlemen: I hereby submit my report as Superintendent of Poor, for the period commencing September 2nd, and ending with the date hereof. As winter comes on, the assistance necessary to be given to the outside families will, of course, increase, but I have the pleasure of reporting that during the last two months and one-half, the amount spent for this purpose has been relatively very low.

The following is a list of the amounts and the purpose for which they were used:

B. L. Horr, Groceries.....$33.34
William Orr, Rent.....15.00
A. R. Mangerson, Groceries.....63.91
C. C. Collins Lumber Co., Wood.....5.00
Gary & Danielson, Clothing.....5.00
John Gilligan, Rent.....10.00
S. D. Nelson, Groceries.....7.91
L. O. Larson, Rent.....24.00

Total.....$187.00

My expenses for the last two and one-half months in looking after the work in the outside towns, has amounted to $5.72. Unfortunately the expense at the hospital during the last month has been over the average.

The county physician has had a number of difficult cases, and has performed not less than four serious operations during the last month, all of which required assistance. There is at present, however, a let up in the condition found there, and I believe that the patients now at the hospital will all soon be discharged or removed to the Poor Farm.

The following is a list of the expenses during the last period:

St. Mary's Hospital, board and care of John Olson.....$37.00
St. Mary's Hospital, board and care of Anton Gunderson.....35.00
St. Mary's Hospital, board and care of Peter Sherman.....6.00
St. Mary's Hospital, board and care of S. Palaski.....11.00
St. Mary's Hospital, board and care of Julius Plavaki.....4.00
St. Mary's Hospital, board and care of John White.....6.00
St. Mary's Hospital, board and care of George Sale.....1.00
St. Mary's Hospital, board and care of Frank Fahl.....33.00

Total.....$143.00

Of the above Frank Fahl is a resident of Wood County. The proper notice has been served, and as soon as this amount is paid by the county, the District Attorney will take the matter up with the proper authorities and collect the same. All proper steps have been taken to protect the county's rights. The expenses for the farm have been about normal during this period, although as high as twenty inmates has been the average during this period. The following are the expenses incurred in detail:
A. B. Mangerson, Groceries.....	$112.00
W. H. Meinecke, Meats.....	21.57
A. R. Mangerson, Groceries.....	9.82
Kolden Dry Goods Co.....	1.03
B. L. Horr, Groceries.....	54.24
T. C. Wood Hdw. Co.....	5.20
Rhineland Lumber & Coal Co.....	16.67
Gary & Danielson, Clothing.....	34.00
Lowell & Chafes, Plumbing.....	9.66
Nichols Hdw. Co.....	54.15

Total.....$343.43

Of the above items it will be noticed that the meat bill especially has been very small, as also have the grocery bills, and the major portion of the expenses listed were in preparation for winter, and also for damage done by the small fire during the last month.

It will be found that in other parts of this report that full compensation was received from the insurance company for all damages sustained as a result of the fire, including the labor of the inmates in making repairs. With this in mind, the expenses have been below normal. The following is a detailed statement of my checking account.

Balance on hand at the time of my last report.....$ 17.75
Received from sale of produce.....55.00
Received from Insurance.....35.91

Total.....$108.66

The following are the amounts checked off from this total:

Rheume & Pecor.....$ 1.45
W. Smith, work on farm.....2.00
Gladys Westcott, work at home.....16.00
Henry Wubker, livery.....1.00
W. W. Wentworth, chimney cleaning.....3.00
Gladys Westcott, work at home.....16.00
Express.....2.63

Total.....$42.08

The balance on hand being $66.58 I believe it will be unnecessary to set aside any sum at this time.

Besides the produce sold and used on the farm, we have considerable on hand for winter use, and in this I give you a list, together with a list of the stock now on the farm.

There are five cows, one steer, two calves, thirteen pigs, one hundred fifty chickens, ten tons of hay, two hundred seventy bushels of potatoes, fifty bushels corn, thirteen bushels onions, three hundred head of cabbage, thirteen bushel carrots, seven bushel beets, one bu. parsnips, five bu. tomatoes.

It is my opinion that if the same policy is carried on, that has been followed during this last year or two, that the farm can be almost self sustaining during the summer months, we have been able, by carefully stocking the farm, so that the income from butter, cream and milk is quite considerable at this time, over and above all that is needed for the farm.

Very little vegetables will be needed for some time, and on the whole, the entire poor work is being run on a minimum basis at this time. For this reason I recommend that an appropriation for the coming year need not be as large as that made last year. We have not found it necessary to use all that was appropriated, and the expense for the coming year, will, undoubtedly be lower than during the past.

Respectfully submitted,
James O'Melia.

Moved by Supervisor A. Olson seconded by Supervisor Meyer that report be accepted as read and placed on file. Motion carried.

Last year in Wisconsin at least one life was saved every twenty-one hours by the organized educational fight against tuberculosis which has resulted in the cutting down of the death rate from this disease from 110.3 per 100,000 in 1909, the first year of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association's activity, to 93.1 in 1915.

Had the 1909 death rate prevailed in 1915, there would have been 2,728 deaths from tuberculosis in the year instead of 2,310. The reduction of the death rate meant a saving of 418 lives in a year. These facts are graphically set forth in a folder bearing the question, "What is Life Worth to You?", issued by the state association, asking the support of the public for the association work through the purchase of Red Cross Seals. The need for this support and for continued effort along the lines which has resulted so definitely in the saving of human life is emphasized by the following facts:

Even with the reduced death rate: 6 persons die of tuberculosis in Wisconsin every day in the year, one death every four hours.

In 1915 there were 192 deaths each month, 41 deaths each week. In 1909 the death rate from tuberculosis was marching steadily upward. Since 1909 it has been going steadily downward, in spite of the fact that there is annually a more complete and accurate registration of deaths from tuberculosis and that many deaths are now recorded which a few years ago would have been disguised under another diagnosis. Other facts and figures of interest are given in the folder which will be sent any one on request.

"Tuberculosis is yielding, slowly and stubbornly it is true," says the state association, "but nevertheless yielding to the concerted attack which is striking at the very foundations of the disease."

"It can be entirely wiped out of Wisconsin if we all of us, working together, do our share."

"That's one reason why you should buy Red Cross Christmas Seals."

"There are others, for the fight against tuberculosis also means a campaign for better health conditions surrounding and protecting every man, woman and child in Wisconsin from every other preventable disease."

GUARD PROBLEMS HARD TO SETTLE

Objection Is Raised To Disorganization Of Wisconsin Regiments

National guard questions will play an important part in the legislation before the legislature the coming winter.

While the federal government will give a much larger appropriation than ever before for the support of the Wisconsin National guard, the Wisconsin legislature will have to increase its appropriation if approximately 10,000 men are to be mustered into the guard, as provided for under the new federal legislation. Armories will have to be provided for the new companies and it is likely that some regulations as to the state status of the guard will be requested.

Thus it is understood that one of the initial bills which will be put into the legislature on the question of the National guard will be a bill providing that the present regiments of the National guard shall not be disorganized in the organization of the new regimental units. Geographical reasons would probably call for the reorganization of the guard under entirely new regimental units. The companies of some of the regiments are now widely scattered. Thus the Third regiment has companies in towns all the way from Superior to LaCrosse. On the other hand, the present National guard officers seem to think the disorganization of the regiments by the placing of some of the companies in new regiments would be a bad mistake and would be resented by the enlisted men.

SKATERS THROG MUNICIPAL RINK

Hundreds Enjoying Sport On Boom Lake—Will Install Light System

During the last week the municipal skating rink on Boom Lake has been more popular than ever, hundreds of skaters, young and old, enjoying the sport. The ice is in perfect condition, affording the best of skating. It is estimated that five hundred people were on the rink Thanksgiving afternoon. Many men and women, well past middle life, who had not donned skates since their youth, were observed among the crowd.

That the rink may be illuminated at night the board of public works has ordered installed there a system of electric lighting. The Rhinelander Light & Power company has kindly offered to provide the current free, the only expense being that connected with the installation.

It has also been proposed that the Rhinelander band furnish music on the rink on certain nights during the winter. This matter will be taken up with the band officials and it is believed that satisfactory arrangements for a schedule of concerts can be arranged.

JOHNSON WILL BE RELEASED FRIDAY

Victor Johnson, alias Peter Chris, the Finlander, who was arrested in Woodruff ten days ago on suspicion of being implicated in the wreck of a Northwestern passenger train near Manitowoc three months ago, will probably be released from the county jail Friday.

The officers here and Northwestern detectives have been unable to connect Johnson with the wreck and although he has been subjected to several severe grillings, maintains he has no knowledge whatever of the crime.

It is doubtful if he ever was in Manitowoc and especially at the time of the wreck.

People from Manitowoc have been brought here by Northwestern detectives for the purpose of identifying the prisoner but none has claimed to have seen him before.

Thinking that Johnson may have a criminal record and possibly be wanted elsewhere, Sheriff Crofoot has been investigating his past career, but has learned nothing which would warrant the man's further detention.

FLASHES FROM THE HEADLIGHT

According to dispatches from the big cities this car shortage that has been troubling shippers all over the country, is soon to end. Almost everything that has happened, or failed to happen, during the past few months has been laid by the railroads to the shortage of cars, and it seems that efforts are being made to relieve the situation.

That the big railroads of the country are preparing against any future car shortage such as the present one is evidenced when it is known that orders for 35,000 freight cars were placed with equipment builders during the first three weeks of November. Heavy purchases of locomotives for domestic use also are under way. Most of these orders are scheduled for delivery one year hence.

These orders involving a half-million were placed in face of highly unsatisfactory conditions. Prices for these products are 40 to 50 per cent above the normal and prospects are that deliveries will be very slow. The foreign and domestic orders have crowded the equipment builders so heavy no orders will be taken except with the understanding that no delivery will be made before a year or fourteen months.

Few except railroad men realize the cost of the ordinary trains of cars that pass through Rhinelander and appreciate the amount of loss that results even from a small wreck. The following article from "The Way The People Travel" is illuminating:

Few people comprehend the enormous cost of the material which enters into track and train equipment. Few still realize that these already high figures are constantly becoming higher. A comparison of the present day cost of train equipment with the figures of twenty years ago will give some idea of how costly it is to run a railroad:

1895—

1 engine cost $10,410

25 box cars at $550 each. 16,250

Total $26,660

1915—

1 engine cost $29,376

60 box cars at $1,250. 75,000

Total $104,376

Reduced rates, together with the enormous increase in the cost of operation have made necessary the longer trains in order that the railroads might make expenses.

And now look at a comparison of the cost of passenger train equipment of 1895 and 1915:

1895—

1 engine cost $10,410

3 coaches at $3500 10,500

1 baggage car 6,000

1 postoffice car 6,000

1 express car 6,000

1 dining car 6,000

Total $53,916

1915—

1 engine cost $26,650

3 coaches at $16,785 50,355

1 baggage car 11,000

1 postoffice car 12,000

1 express car 10,000

1 dining car 25,000

Total $134,005

NORTH CRANDON

(Northern Citizen)

Miss Mae Hawks and Clyde Wine both of this village, were united in marriage at Crandon last Monday, November 27. The newly wedded couple have the well wishes of the Citizen, and their many friends for a successful voyage thru life.

The passing of Andrew Koch at his home in this village on Monday forenoon, November 27, after an illness of several weeks, at the age of seventy years, caused deep sorrow in this community, in which he resided the past twenty two years. The deceased was born in Germany, November 6, 1845, grew to manhood there and was married in Holland to Mary Louise Kriemer in 1861. In 1865 accompanied by his wife he arrived in America and came direct to Wisconsin and located at De Pere. In 1877 he moved his family to Sturgeon Bay and in 1886 to Gladstone, Mich., and in 1894 to North Crandon where he made his home ever since. Mrs. Koch, who was called May 5, 1913 left him as a widow. Mr. Koch was an industrious carpenter and farmer, following the latter profession the last few years. He was an obiding neighbor and a devout member of the Catholic church. He is survived by three sons and a daughter, Martin Koch of Crandon and Mrs. Albert Behm of Antigo who were all present at the funeral which was held on Wednesday forenoon at ten o'clock from St. Mary's church of which he was a member since locating here. Rev. Father Gluckstein of Crandon officiating with interment in the Catholic cemetery. The bereft relatives have the sympathy of the community in their hour of grief.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; none cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

TEN MEET DEATH IN DEER SEASON

List Of Fatalities In Northern Woods Exceeds That Of Last Year

With the close of the hunting season, the number of deaths has already exceeded the record of 1913, figures show.

Up to and including November 30, ten men have been killed in the northern woods while hunting deer, while twenty died during the period from Sept. 1 to the opening of the duck hunting season, to Nov. 11. In 1915, five were killed, and in 1914, twenty-four died.

It is estimated that close to 15,000 nimrods invaded the wooded sections of northern Wisconsin and Michigan this year. The demand for licenses was larger than for some time past.

The "one buck" law, which went into effect a year ago was believed to have been responsible for the decrease in the number of deaths in 1915. Since the hunters have become used to the operation of the law, it is believed that they have become more careless. One case is recorded of a hunter who was shot despite the fact that he wore the regulation red coat and hat.

Five persons were seriously injured in Wisconsin during the present season and three in the northern peninsula. Thirty-eight were slightly hurt in Wisconsin, and 12 slightly injured. In addition, five were seriously hurt, and thirtytwo slightly, previous to the opening of the deer season.

The list of dead, to date is as follows:

Charles Fronck, Antigo, who was accidentally shot near that city when mistaken for a deer; Peter Deraltis, Birchwood, who was shot in some unknown manner, and found three days later in the woods; Raymond Simonson, Two Harbors, accidentally shot by a hunting companion; William G. Williams, Misery Bay, near Escanaba, accidentally shot himself and bled to death; Eddie Hanson, Holland, body found in Black Lake; William McCartney, Reed City, body found in Black Lake; Eli Green, Muskegon, mistaken for deer at Antlers, Marquette county; Arthur A. Cunningham, Milton, N. H., died of heart disease in woods in Montgomery county while hunting; Charles Krueger, of Detroit, mistaken for deer in Montmorency county.

WARDENS MISTAKE PORK FOR VENISON

It is impossible to resist the temptation to republish the following from Florence Mining News:

Deputy Conservation Warden Smith, Brit and Miller went to the home of Peter Reindl, a Homestead farmer, last Saturday, and confiscated a bunch of venison for an alleged violation of the game laws. Among the pieces of meat seized was some fresh pork. After his case was tried Monday, Mr. Reindl demanded the return of his pork, and you bet the wardens hustled it back to him. We don't believe that a man who can't tell pork from venison has any right to hold a game warden's job. Or we suggest that the Conservation Commission hold a school of instruction and teach their wardens the difference between beef, pork, venison and other kinds of meat. Mr. Smith denies that he had anything to do with the seizure of the pork so it must be up to his two assistants and, perhaps, they might yet be called on to explain why they took a poor farmer's pork, which he had raised and butchered for his winter's supply of meat, for wild deer meat, commonly called venison.

I FOUND IT OUT TWO YEARS AGO, BUT YOU WOULDN'T LISTEN TO ME.

THINK OF ALL THE PRECIOUS TIME WASTED ON ORDINARY TOBACCO!

YOU probably realize the change that two years have made among tobacco users. Hundreds of W-B CUT users waited months before they were willing to try it. Changing from one old kind of tobacco to another never seemed to improve matters. But common sense was bound to win. Rich tobacco, shredded, lightly salted—no excess sweetening—that's as far as tobacco satisfaction can go, and what a big difference it makes!

PRIZE POTATOES ADVERTISE COUNTY

Other States Consider Oneida Leading Potato Section in Wisconsin

(By W. D. Juday)

Again Oneida county has won the first prize silver cup for having the best exhibit of potatoes at our State Potato Show held this year at Eau Claire. This is an honor that every resident of the county should feel mighty proud of for it is doubtful if any county will ever win another three years in succession. Since potatoes will always be our special cash crop this recognition means much to every potato grower of the county. The advertising it affords has meant the sale of practically all our certified seed stock for the past two years at prices much in advance of the market quotations and the coming spring we will have calls for many carloads of certified seed which we will not be able to fill. These winnings have advertised the county as a whole, more widely than any other one thing. Today by other states, Oneida county is considered the leading potato county in Wisconsin.

Without the help and cooperation of all the residents of the county interested in potato growing this splendid showing could never have been made. First and most we must thank the farmers for their part. They grow a crop, the quality of which is the best. They dig that crop carefully and select the exhibit stock with great pains. This is a great sacrifice of time and effort on the part of the grower. One farmer this year selected nearly 20 bushels of show potatoes another 10, several others more than 5 and many selected from 1 to 3 bushels. These potatoes were then brushed, the undesirable ones culled out and the good ones wrapped and put away for the show. No few farmers could have produced an exhibit equal to the one we had. It took the best of what more than 50 careful growers could select and to these more than 50 men should be given the principal credit for the honors won.

The Advancement Association in cooperation with the business men of the city has also been an important factor. It is through their help under the direction of their Secretary Mr. Woodruff that we are able to have the County Potato Show where the exhibit stock of the county is gotten together and prepared for the State Show. Such good spirit is shown among business men and farmers at our county show that it is hoped we can continue it as an annual affair for years to come.

The spirit of Mr. Weisman in sending each year his artistic window decorator Mr. Friedman to decorate the booth is certainly to be commended. Mr. Friedman has always put up the most attractive booth at the show and although the decorations are not considered in the scoring of the exhibit yet his work has made the Oneida county showing the talk of the whole show.

Next year we want to win again and with all forces working together we can do it. Each year we have worked harder, selected more and better potatoes and exhibited them in a better way. Let us follow the same system for next year and we will leave no doubt in the minds of the judges as to who has the best exhibit. We need the help of all the growers who were in the game this year and will welcome any new farmers who want to help make it four straight instead of three. Make up your mind now to be in the game.

Antigo, Portage, Stevens Point and Madison have been suggested as possible places for holding the show next year.

LITTLE CHATS ABOUT POULTRY

(By G. E. Conkey)

With the coming of cold weather and its effects on laying because of the extra energy birds require to keep their bodily heat, every poultryman turns his thoughts to the type of house that will best keep his birds warm and allow them to put some of their energy into egg production.

Where any attempt is made to house fowls in an up-to-date manner, some form of the curtain-front house is used more than any other because it is an arrangement that may be applied to almost any kind of house. If constructed along the right lines, it supplies the birds with plenty of fresh air at all times, yet eliminates the danger of drafts.

Unlike the fresh-air type, the curtain front house is not a fool-proof house, for the ventilating openings must be adjusted to meet the varying weather conditions, and the house therefore requires more or less constant attention. It often happens that these houses are poorly handled through ignorance, neglect, or because the owner is not always present when changes should be made.

With the successful use of houses of this style depending so much on the attention given them, it is but natural that there should be considerable variation in results obtained. However, since the largest and best poultry plants are using curtain fronts to a great extent, it would indicate that they are a desirable house when handled intelligently. The curtain-front arrangement should appeal strongly to those who look upon a house with the front open at all times as too extreme.

The idea of the curtain-front is to allow a gradual interchange of air between the inside and outside of the house, this being made possible by the porous nature of the cloth used. In winter, air filters through the mesh of the cloth, supplying fresh air in the building and at the same time preventing drafts. Nor need you feel that the use of cloth will make a cold house, because it has been proven that cloth affords a better protection against cold than glass windows. Loosely woven muslin is the best cloth for the curtain. Cheesecloth is too porous in severe weather and canvas would be found too heavy.

While white material, kept clean, as it must be to serve its purpose, will permit a certain amount of light to pass through, it has been found that muslin covered openings alone are not desirable. Without some glass windows the house would be too dark for comfort when the front must be kept closed in cold or stormy weather. Do not run to the other extreme and use too much glass because this will make the house cold at night, and too warm in the daytime.

The extent to which the front of the house is taken up with glass and cloth-covered openings will depend upon the depth of the building and there is no set rule for their arrangement. You will be pretty nearly right if you allow one square foot of glass to each 15 square feet of floor space in the building and then give twice as much space to the cloth openings as to the glass. Except with a very low building, say under 6 feet, the different windows or openings should be 2 1/2 to 3 feet above the floor on the front of the house, which will allow the winter sunshine to penetrate well to the rear of the building. In an extra large, deep house, it is a good plan to have a few long, narrow windows above the regular openings on the front, close to the roof so that more light and sunshine will reach the rear of the house. By opening these windows in the summer the heat in the high point of the building will find a good outlet.

In using cloth, tack it to a frame, (1x3 inch strips will answer,) hinging this at the top so that in pleasant weather it can be swung up inside the building and hooked to the ceiling. With the front opened up in this way plenty of fresh air will enter the building during the day and it is only in the coldest and stormiest weather that the fowls would not be comfortable with this arrangement. At night the front of the house is closed according to the weather, but don't depend on the cloth openings for ventilating except when the temperature goes considerably below the freezing point. In mild winter weather allow the windows to remain open a little at night but always make sure that a draft will not strike the birds while at roost. Don't build your houses too shallow for this shortens the distance between the roosts and the front openings and you will then have to keep a closer watch on your ventilators to guard against the possibility of a current of fresh air striking the birds at roost.

Father's Position.
One evening we were entertaining our guests. One of the men took my little brother on his lap. The man said, "What is your father, my little man?" He answered, "A man." The man asked him then what his father did, and he answered: "Just what mamma tells him to do."—Chicago Tribune.

STORES TAKE ON XMAS APPEARANCE

The Christmas spirit is creeping over the land and the annual appeal to do your Christmas shopping early is being heard. With money more plentiful than ever before Christmas sales this year promises to surpass all records.

Merchants of this city are preparing for the Christmas business. Their stocks have been replenished with new goods direct from the great market centers and the touch of holiday red and green has already made its appearance in many windows. Although imported goods are scarce this year, notably toys and other novelties manufactured in Germany, the American goods and quaint articles of Japanese manufacture are more than filling in the breach. There is also the patriotic side of the knowledge that this great country of ours is now more independent in a commercial sense than it has been since the days of the spinning wheel and that American workmen are not only making substitutes for articles of foreign make, but are producing goods superior in quality and more practical.

A THOROUGH TEST

One To Convince the Most Skeptical Rhineland Reader

The test of time is the test that counts.

Doan's Kidney Pills have made their reputation by effective action.

The following case is typical.

Rhineland residents should be convinced.

The testimony is confirmed—the proof complete.

Testimony like this cannot be ignored.

J. E. Russ, 821 Wabash St., Rhineland, says: "Hoisting logs brought on a strain in my back that resulted in backache and pains through my loins. When I lay down and in the morning when I got up, my back was always the most painful. My kidneys didn't act right and I had every reason to know that they were causing the suffering. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured the attack." (Statement given November 2, 1910.)

On November 1st, 1913, Mr. Russ said: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity I have. I have used this medicine since I previously recommended it, with the same good results."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Russ has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

CLEARWATER LAKE

Elder J. J. Erwin of Ashland president of the North Wisconsin Conference of S. D. Adventists, held meetings with the church at Clearwater Lake Sabbath and Sunday. He goes from here to Cranston to visit the church there.

The Kingman Bros. will go into camp this week near Laona, Wis.

This week is the week of prayer for the Adventist denomination all over the world, also to gather money for mission work in the regions beyond.

This is fine weather hardly any snow left on the ground, but the change may come suddenly to zero.

Robert McKeller is visiting Clearwater this week on business.

Miss Myrtle Dunn returned from a vacation, spending Thanksgiving with her parents in Rhineland. She reports a good time with her friends.

The young folks at Clearwater are enjoying the evenings skating on Clearwater Lake, the ice being eight inches thick.

Dr. Cady of Birnamwood has bought Spencer Scribner's farm at Clearwater. Mr. Scribner will move to Berrien Springs, Mich., to attend college.

Dr. Cady will build anew in the spring and have Mr. Boyer of Birnamwood run the farm.

Perpetual Brightness.

MINOCQUA

(Minocqua Times)

The marriage of Mrs. Alvina Dougherty of this place and Mr. Jno. Wagner of Merrill was solemnized at Milwaukee, Monday November 20th. After the ceremony they departed for Chicago and Springfield, Ill., where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shuck who spend the summers at their cottage on Little Arbor Vitae. Mrs. Wagner has a host of friends whose best wishes are with her. The groom has made a very favorable impression on all who have become acquainted with him. The new couple will reside at this place.

Last Thursday while guiding Messrs. Scowen and Please of the Chicago Rod and Gun Club, Jean Johnson succeeded in capturing a fox on Birch Lake near Winchester. The animal seems to be a cross between the silver gray and black fox. Jean was offered $125 for the pelt.

J. E. O'Leary was called to the home of his brother at Park Lake, Minnesota, to attend the funeral of his niece Ester who was drowned while skating on Park Lake. The young lady was sixteen years old and a member of the Senior class of the Park Lake High school.

Most of the hunters from this place have been lucky enough to affix their tags to a buck. Many local hunters as well as outside hunters can be complimented on their good eyesight as many apparently saw the horns before they had sprouted.

Wm. Hoffman who broke his leg while skating is now recuperating at his home at Lyndhurst. He states that he is getting along nicely and that he will be back after the Christmas holidays.

WALTONEN'S TRIAL SOON
That Arthur Waltonen, who is held on the charge of the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, a millionaire widow, in her home in New York on the night of Sept. 7, 1915, will be tried before Christmas is now assured, according to reports emanating from the offices of the prosecuting attorney in New York. SPECIAL PRICES ON COATS, SUITS AND DRESSES FOR THE HOLIDAYS

When Sending the Gift

The humblest gift goes forth now adays on its Christmas travels in decorative dress. No one thinks of sending a Christmas package in ordinary store wrappings, and each season there are fascinating adornments for the inside and outside of a package.

The ordinary gift has increased in it a Christmas card—if the visiting card is used the title is stricken out—with appropriate decoration. Among the new designs is one with a miniature tree at one corner and a steaming plum pudding at the other, connected by a literary Christmas scroll. For the children is a holly bordered card with Santa Claus filling the stocking before the open grate. In good taste is a green holly wreath tied with a red bow, and for the best girl is a mistletoe card.

Christmas Two Centuries Ago.

A writer, who signed himself Thomas North, gives a rather lively picture of English Christmas observances in the reign of George II. "My house, sir," he writes, "is directly opposite a great church, and it was with great pleasure I observed from my window last Christmas day the numerous poor that waited at the doors very liberally relieved, but my joy was soon over, for no sooner were the charitable congregations dispersed but these wretches, who before appeared the very pictures of misery, forgot their cant and fell to quarrelling about the dividend. Oaths and curses flew about them very plentifully, and passion grew so high that they fell hard upon one another's faults. In short, sir, I learned from their own mouths that they were all impostors, both men and women."

Zoological Moment.

Nephew—"I tried to get a raise to-day, aunt, but the boss refused it." Mrs. Blunderb—"Too bad, Dicky. Perhaps you didn't approach him at the zoological moment."

Christmastide

THE blasts of winter are fierce and cold.

The snow lies deep over hill and fold.

But a star shines bright through the deepening gloom—

Room for the Christ Child, room!

Where man's distrust and his greed for gain

Have frozen the floods of tender rain

Till never a flower of hope can bloom—

Room for the Christ Child, room!

In homes that deepest griefs have borne,

'Mid silent forms of those that mourn,

In the shadows that gather around the tomb—

Room for the Christ Child, room!

Where nations are warring, life for life,

And a cry rings out from the fearful strife

As a dying people sinks to its doom—

Room for the Christ Child, room!

Room for the shepherds of Bethlehem,

Room for the angels who sang to them,

Room for the light in the wintry gloom—

Room for the Christ Child, room!

—Willis Boyd Allen in Harper's Magazine.

Comfortable Homes Help.

The better farm home is not a panacea for all ills of dissatisfaction with farm life. There will be farm boys and farm girls who will want to take up other professions than tilling the soil. The problem, says the department of agriculture, is not to force them to stay on the farm, but to make conditions good enough there that they may make an intelligent choice.

THE CHRISTMAS STORY.

It's All Real to Bobby Boy, Who'd Like to Ride With Santa Claus.

Bobby Boy was sitting in his wee brown chair so close to the great bunch of Christmas holly that he could stretch out his fingers and touch the shiny red berries whenever he wanted to make believe that he was far away in the great forest in Santa Claus land. He had only to close his eyes and "shiver his shoulders," as if he were cold, when the warm, quiet room would vanish and he would be walking with Merry Bell in the story.

"By and by," said the sweet voice of Sister Marjorie, who was reading from the book, so she couldn't shut her eyes and make believe she was in the forest too. Bobby Boy remembered that he must tell Sister Marjorie just what it looked like when they reached home. "By and by they came to a part of the forest where there were tall trees, green and fragrant, just like the trees one sees in the markets before Christmas."

"Merry Bell clasped her hands. 'Hoorah!' she cried. 'We're almost there! See; here are the Christmas tree woods. Pretty soon we'll find the reindeer feeding on the evergreen vines.'

"They walked softly through the snow paths. 'Sh! said Merry Bell; 'don't frighten them. When they see us the Christmas reindeer will know us and come running to us to let us kiss them. That's how we know which are the good reindeer that will carry dear old Santa safely over the world on Christmas eve. Just think—if a reindeer was bad and tipped poor Santa out.'"

Bobby Boy opened his eyes wide. "Hol! I wouldn't care if they did tip him out. I'd wun right on in the snow an' help him put all the toys back, an' nen maybe he'd give me a ride."

Sister Marjorie laughed and went on with the story which dealt with the enchanted country behind the picture books.

Probably Sang It From His Heart.

A corpulent tenor was about to go on in the oratorio of "Elijah," when his trousers gave way at the seams. Numerous pins were brought into service, and finally, well trusted up, he went upon the stage and sang, "Ye people, rend your hearts, rend your hearts, and not your garments."

A Christmas Carol

By JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL

"WHAT means this glory round our feet?"

The Magi mused, "more bright than morn?"

And voices chanted clear and sweet,

"Today the Prince of Peace is born!"

"WHAT means that star," the shepherds said,

"That brightens through the rocky glen?"

And angels, answering overhead,

Sang "Peace on earth, good will to men!"

"TIS eighteen hundred years and more

Since those sweet oracles were dumb.

We wait for him, like them of yore.

Alas, he seems so slow to come!

BUT it was said in words of gold

No time or sorrow e'er shall dim

That little children might be bold

In perfect trust to come to him.

ALL round about our feet shall shine

A light like that the wise men saw

If we our loving wills incline

To that sweet Life which is the law.

SO shall we learn to understand

The simple faith of shepherds then

And, clasping kindly hand in hand,

Sing "Peace on earth, good will to men!"

AND they who do their souls no wrong,

But keep at eve the faith of morn,

Shall daily hear the angel song,

"Today the Prince of Peace is born!"

Christmas Long Drawn Out.

It has become the custom to imagine that every ceremony connected with the Christmas holidays in old England was observed on the holiday itself. Nothing could be further from the real facts. It should be remembered that in England of old, and to some extent even in industrial England of today, Christmas does not refer only to the holiday itself, but to the twelve days and nights immediately following the feast of the Nativity. It would easily be discovered by anybody who took the trouble to give a few moments' thought to the subject that it would be high physically impossible to follow all the ceremonials and customs connected with the Christmas season on one day.

The Season of Joy.

The festival of Christmas is gratefully unique because of the predominant note it contains—the note of joy, of a rapture, an abandon of delight, which carries all before it—and, while it surcharges the hearts of those who are naturally gay, it also invades the gloomiest and the most sorrowful and creates for them a rift in the constant clouds of the heart.—Rev. R. P. Cadman.

Fitness in Gifts.

The ideal consideration in making a Christmas gift is fitness. What would be an ideal present for one person would be a mockery for another. It isn't the cost—it isn't even the beauty of a gift that must be first considered—it is the need and the tastes of the recipient.

To Amuse a Convalescent Child.

Get one of the common toy balloons of bright color. Tie a piece of newspaper to the end of the string, tear off or add to the paper until the balloon is balanced, and give to the child to turn loose in the room. It will perform the most curious antics, constantly changing and going about the room exploring everything, due to the air currents.

Sawed-Off Sermon.

Sometimes a girl's face is her fortune, but more often it is the figure on the face of her father's check.—Indianaapolis Star.

Suggested Remedy.

Her mother swallowed a fish bone and told Florence, aged five, not to bother her, because it hurt her inside. Florence replied, "Then why don't you go outside?"

All at Your Service.

All the books in the great public libraries are yours, if you can read them. All the paintings in the great galleries are yours, if you can enjoy them. Legal ownership could only enable you to prevent others from using them or empower you to give them up for money.

Slap at College Professors.

Crawford—"You seem to think that a college education doesn't fit one for the problems of life." Crabshaw—"I judge by the mess the average college professor makes of it when he undertakes to discuss public questions."—Life.

Plenty of Hope for Him.

Sapleigh—"I like a girl who can take a joke." Miss Keen—"Then you stand a splendid chance of being accepted."—Boston Transcript.
